87% IN COUNTY TOWNS AGAINST ENTERING WAR

2,533 Say 'No' to 368 'Ayes' in Poll.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Cook county country town voters, making their first replies in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S war poll, yesterday outdistanced Chicagoans in registering their protest against war.

Residents of 29 townships, bounding Chicago on three sides, were represented in the ballots counted yesterday in response to the question: "Shall the United States Enter the War to Help Britain Defeat Hitler?" In addition to smaller suburbs, returns included samples from such populous centers as Evanston and Cicero.

A total of 2,910 county town ballots had been received late yesterday, with these results:

Yes [for war]: 368, or 12.65 per cent.

No [against war]: 2,533, or 87.04 per cent.

Spoiled or unmarked ballots from the suburbs totaled 9, or .31 per cent.

More Chicago Ballots.

In addition to counting the initial batch of country town votes, the poll tabulators also recorded results from 2,873 new ballots from Chicago's 50 wards. They brought the city total to 16,963 ballots, with the following results:

Yes [for war]: 3,430, or 20.22 per cent.

No [against war]: 13,397, or 78.98 per cent.

Spoiled city ballots totaled 136, or .80 per cent.

Addition of the suburban ballots brought the county-wide percentage against war to 80.11; the pro-war percentage to 19.11, and the percentage of spoils to .78.

A poll of New York state on the same question, conducted by the New York News, showed 31.3 per cent for war and 68.7 per cent for peace last night.

Ballots in the Chicago poll were sent to every 10th voter in the 30 county townships, the 50 city wards, and in nine downstate cities whose elections are conducted by election boards. A total of 257,484 ballots were mailed with return postage prepaid.

29 Townships Report.

Only Schaumberg township was missing from the first suburban returns, and in none of the 29 others were the voters casting a majority for war, altho the mail from a few of them was so meager as to give little indication. Evanston, Oak Park, and Cicero were among the towns from which enough ballots had been received to establish a trend. The trend was against war.

In the city, the war picture continued the same on the basis of the new ballots, 49 of the 50 wards casting majorities against war. The exception was the 24th, on the west side, which, save for the first day, has consistently turned in a percentage favoring intervention. It stood at 53.96 per cent last night.

The city ratio of total "No" votes equals 3.9 for every "Yes" vote, and the suburban ratio is 6.88 "No" votes to one "Yes."

Returns are expected shortly from the nine downstate cities which are being polled. They are Cairo, Bloomington, Springfield, Rockford, Aurora, Peoria, East St. Louis, Danville, and Galesburg.

WOMAN GIVES UP $57,000 IN GEMS TO TWO GUNMEN

Mrs. Frances Lay, 56 years old, of 3466 Lake Shore drive, was robbed of jewelry valued at $57,000 early today in front of 400 Deming place. Mrs. Lay and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert C. Schroeder, who live at the Deming place address, had been at the Chicago Athletic club, 12 South Michigan avenue. The Schroeders were being driven home in Mrs. Lay's automobile. The chauffeur was Carl Buelow.

As the automobile stopped in front of 400 Deming place another car pulled alongside and two men armed with pistols jumped out. A third man remained in the bandit car.

The robbers took a ring containing a 13 or 14 carat square cut diamond, valued at $52,000, a $2,500 pin, and a $2,500 sapphire ring.

Mrs. Lay divorced the late Robert Dwight Lay, former insurance executive and president of the Chicago Athletic association, in 1938, receiving a reported settlement of $300,000. Lay died Jan. 1, 1940.

MOSCOW CLAIMS GERMANS HURLED BACK TO RUMANIA

The Moscow Wednesday morning communique declared the Germans had been driven back into Rumania at one point on the southern front. Russian counterattacks were launched at many points and were holding up the German advance. German losses were declared heavy.

The "bitterest fighting" yet met in the European war is raging on the Russian front, according to dispatches from Berlin. Hitler's official communique made only a one sentence reference to the vast battle, stating that the German operations were "proceeding on schedule."

Military experts in Vichy, France, after analyzing dispatches from both sides, said the German drive against the Stalin line had been virtually stopped for four days.

Red Greeters Jostle Brass Hats of London

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 8.—A cheering, singing, and fist saluting crowd jammed a corner of Euston station and rushed military police barriers in a wild greeting to the Red army, navy, and air force mission headed by Maj. Gen. Golikov, which arrived here today.

Sir Henry Pownall.

The Russians were greeted officially by Lieut. Gen. Sir Henry Pownall, vice chief of the imperial general staff; Air Vice Marshal N. H. Bottomley, deputy chief of the air staff, and Vice Admiral T. S. V. Phillips, vice chief of the naval staff.

Communists Present.

Unofficially more than 500 British communists and leftist sympathizers provided the real welcoming party. When the delegation descended from its train the 500 burst into the "Internationale" and other Russian songs and shouted, "Long live Stalin!"

Some pushed aside the police and flung their arms around the delegates, greeting them as "comrades."

The enthusiasm of the reception, despite official attempts to maintain it as a stiff, proper military affair from which all but the elite of the fighting service departments would be excluded, turned it into a popular demonstration exceeding even that accorded to Wendell L. Willkie.

Photographs Permitted.

This aroused such protests "and ribaldry" from the press men, he said, that the matter was referred to Pownall, who described the ban as "nonsense" and immediately ordered photographs to be allowed.

"There was also a sheep and goats rule," Swaffer declared. "The reporters could not go up near, photographers were told by a military policeman to 'fall in in two ranks,' and the crowd was to be kept well back from the train."

As the delegates drove off one onlooker turned to Swaffer and said: "Now, perhaps, we shall win the bloody war."

TRUCK SHORTAGE SLOWS TRAINING OF 33D DIVISION

Camp Forrest, Tenn., July 8 (AP).—A shortage of trucks loomed today as the biggest problem facing Camp Forrest's 26,000 troops as plans were mapped for maneuvers in August and September.

Both the Illinois 33d division and the Tennessee-Colorado 75th brigade have less than 50 per cent of their allotted motor equipment.

Maj. Gen. Samuel T. Lawton, camp commander, said he had received assurances that enough trucks would be received before the troops leave here about Aug. 11.

The supply officer received 110 vehicles this week. Thirty-three were assigned to Tennessee's 131st field artillery, giving the regiment 40 per cent of its allotted 410 vehicles. The 181st field artillery [Tennessee] has less transportation than any other regiment in camp, only 120 of its allotted 410 vehicles.

BERRIES $1.40 A POUND? FOOLISH, BRITONS ARE TOLD

LONDON, July 8 (AP).—Food Minister Lord Woolton today indicated that a complaint that London retailers charged 7 shillings [$1.40] a pound for raspberries was no concern of his. He said: "I am trying to distribute food, not deal with mental deficiency. We are fighting a war for our very existence. I have something else to do than deal with the folly of a person who charges that price for raspberries—and the foolishness of the person who pays it."

Ears Ringing, Feet Stinging, Hike, Soldier!

Camp Robinson, Ark., July 8 (AP).—Weary and footsore soldiers of the 35th division's "doghouse" battalion, paying the penalty for an outburst of whistling and calling to shorts clad girls on a Memphis golf course, obviously had learned their lesson tonight after alternately hiking and riding thru Arkansas from Tennessee.

Strictly silent and with not even a sidelong glance for girls on the sidewalks, the 350 chastened soldiers passed thru Forrest City, Ark., in midafternoon, one-third of the penance trek completed in punishment ordered by Lieut. Gen. Ben Lear, 2d army commander, for conduct he said was a "disgrace to the army."

"Old Army Game."

Before leaving Memphis under a hot sun for the 150 mile jaunt back to Camp Robinson, one trooper said, "It's the old army game. We'd just gotten a pat on the back for our work at maneuvers—now we're in the doghouse because we hollered at some girls!"

All this might not have happened had mufti clad Gen. Lear not been on the scene. "Hey, buddy, don't you want a caddie?" was one of the calls from a truck. The commander ordered the battalion to ride to Camp Robinson and to return at once 150 miles to Memphis for disciplinary action.

Gen. Lear delivered a stiff rebuke to the men after their overnight bivouac in a Memphis park and also said in his letter that resignations of commissioned officers involved would be accepted if offered. He said noncoms would be demoted if they could not keep discipline.

March in Single File.

Grinning sheepishly at passers-by, the troops marched alongside the highway in single file after leaving Memphis at 7:30 a. m.

One of the soldiers, who exchanged a few words with a reporter while changing trucks along the way, said the men hiked about 10 miles before they were all put aboard trucks. He said the battalion was dismounted again at Lonoke, 22 miles east of Little Rock, and ordered to march. Even the truck drivers got in 15 miles of footwork.

CAPITAL HEARS F. D. R. PLANS TO OCCUPY AZORES

President Ridicules Hemisphere Limit.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 8.—President Roosevelt at his press conference today ridiculed the idea of a definite demarcation line beyond which the United States will not operate for "defense of the hemisphere." He also indorsed indirectly a proposal to extend beyond one year the training period of draftees and National Guardsmen and to remove restrictions on their service outside this hemisphere.

His remarks about the demarcation line were made when he was reminded that Iceland generally is considered to be outside the limits of the western hemisphere under United States protection.

The President revealed his latest views on control of the Atlantic ocean while reports were being circulated in well informed official quarters here that his next step to drive German warships from shipping lanes between England and the United States would be the occupation of the Portuguese Azores and Cape Verde Islands.

Can't Draw Definite Line.

The President said there may be some points just outside what is considered the "western hemisphere" which are tremendously important to hemisphere defense. He said you just can't draw a hemisphere line and put a buoy on it.

In the case of occupying Iceland, which was announced yesterday, it is just a plain practical move, he told his press conference. Asked whether he had any information of German plans to occupy the island, Mr. Roosevelt said sometimes one moves according to information and sometimes he just puts himself in the other fellow's place.

Then asked whether he believed that the "other fellow" was planning to move on the Azores or the Cape Verde Islands—two other points which the President has described as vital to American defense—Mr. Roosevelt said he could not prognosticate.

An Improper Question.

A reporter then asked whether it would be proper to inquire whether any American troops have been sent to Greenland. Mr. Roosevelt said that the question was not proper because it might involve military information.

The President wisecracked that the extent of the hemisphere which the United States is protecting depends upon which geographer he consulted last. He had been reminded that at previous press conferences he had given an interpretation of western hemisphere zoning which would have brought the easternmost extent of the hemisphere between Greenland and Iceland, leaving Iceland about 40 miles west of the boundary.

All Washington debated the question of whether the landing of American marines in Iceland—in the German blockade zone and within range of German bombers—will plunge the United States into an undeclared, shooting war.

Look for Shooting War.

The consensus of both interventionists and noninterventionists is that a shooting war will result if German submarines, surface raiders, and bombing planes attack American vessels or refuse to be cleared from the

BRITISH PREDICT NEW ASSISTANCE FROM ROOSEVELT

Stab in Back: Nazis

BERLIN, July 9 [Wednesday] (AP).—The mouthpiece of the German foreign office, Deutsche Diplomatisch Politische Korrespondenz, today viewed the United States entry into Iceland as a stab in the back of a European community which, it said, was struggling with bolshevism for preservation of western civilization. The Boersenzeitung, Berlin's leading financial paper, called the United States action "the brutal rape of a small European people." It said, "Herr Roosevelt entered the operations zone of this war and consciously set foot on the battlefield where the sharpshooting is going on. The responsibility lies with him."

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 8.—Jubilation expressed in official circles over the American occupation of Iceland spread to all sections of the press and public today. Editorials in London papers expressed the opinion that President Roosevelt has brought the United States thousands of miles closer to direct participation in the war. They also dwelt on the theme that America will convoy ships as far as Iceland.

Minister of Supply Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard said America's action was evidence of the President's determination to go ahead with a policy "not only for taking bases, but also for mastering the seas."

Links U. S. with U. S. S. R.

Mr. Roosevelt's act, it said, "has shown that he will not be deflected from his course by the isolationist revival" following the German attack on Russia. The Evening Standard again linked the United States with the soviet union, declaring, "the highest interest of Britain and America is that Russia should not be allowed to fall before Hitler's onslaught."

The News Chronicle, stressing that Mr. Roosevelt has "taken over a much greater measure of responsibility for the security of the Atlantic crossing," added, "Convoying, like peace, is indivisible."

The Daily Telegraph said that "the effect and intention" of the President's action is to set a limit to the war zone across the North Atlantic "and those who challenge that limit must henceforth reckon with America."

See Immense Possibilities.

The Daily Express, after pointing out that the American flag flies only 500 miles northwest of Britain, said, "We cannot yet see all the possibilities in this approach. But they are immense. They will be exploited to the full."

In the Evening News, Capt. Bernard Ackworth of the British navy discounted the statement of Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont], that Mr. Roosevelt wants to hold Iceland so that American ships can carry food and munitions for transfer to British vessels there.

"Wheeler," he said, "would seem to overlook the great difficulties and delays which such a transfer would entail, if indeed it is practicable at all. . . . We hope to see American merchant ships in British ports."

Hails "Great Principle."

R. K. Cruikshank, in The Evening Star, also predicted further aid from Mr. Roosevelt for Britain. Recalling the President's declaration that "convoys mean shooting," Cruikshank aked, "What will this mean?" The step taken by the President, he declared, "has implied the promise of fresh action."

"Whether he will order the navy to Dakar [French West Africa] or to the Azores to round out his promise of protecting the approaches to the western hemisphere is of minor importance now that a great principle has been established."

U. S. MILITARY FORCE GETS HEARTY WELCOME ON REACHING ICELAND

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, July 8 (AP).—United States naval forces arrived here amid a display of excitement and hearty welcomes.

The first signs of the convoy's appearance were noted from a tall church steeple by watchers who relayed the news to persons gathered in the streets. Icelanders asked one another, "Can these be Americans?"

Tribune Man's Story of Island Visit.

[To learn the story of Iceland's position as a war base, THE TRIBUNE sent a correspondent to the island by boat from a north British port. President Roosevelt announced Monday that the American navy has occupied the island and will replace the British garrison there.]

BY GUY MURCHIE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, June 10 [by air mail].—Arriving in crowded Reykjavik harbor April 23 just as a destroyer flying the American flag steamed out among many scores of fishing smacks, freighters, armed whalers, trawlers, corvettes, and other warships, my first land view of this ancient viking settlement was from the window of a large American made taxi on the way to my hotel.

Since then I have traveled the length of Iceland by foot, army lorry, ski, bicycle, motorcycle, fishing boat, steamship, airplane, and Icelandic pony.

This country, which has winters warmer than Chicago and sometimes snow blizzards in July, looks something like the bleaker parts of California and is bigger than Ireland. There are no trees here, no crime, no aristocracy, no prostitution, no unemployed, no beggars, no dogs, no national defense, and virtually no interest in religion of any kind.

But Iceland has more illegitimate babies born, fish caught, and books published per head of population than any country in the world.

Unique Among Nations.

Almost unique among nations, Iceland has traditionally made a fetish of being unarmed, relying on her isolation for security. She has been friendly with both Germany and England.

Altho her position as the earliest republic and founder of the oldest parliament in the world [the althing, which has been meeting since 930 A. D.] has made her naturally more sympathetic with Britain, her contacts with Germany have largely met with warmer response.

For example, there is a permanent colony of some 30,000 Icelanders [a quarter of Iceland's population] in the region of Winnipeg, and many more in other parts of Canada and the United States. However, the Icelanders who went to Germany for a less expensive education were more enthusiastically received and generally returned to Iceland not only with professional training, but feeling ardently pro-German.

Called a "Holy Land."

This undoubtedly has been in part due to German promotion, but also seems the natural result of the fact that Iceland is regarded by the Germans as the "Holy Land" of Aryan culture, where the purest of Nordic pagan traditions flowered and the sagas were written which formed the basis of Wagner's greatest works.

Many prominent Icelanders in recent years have been invited to lecture thruout Nazi Germany and hand picked German students have been sent to Iceland in exchange for Icelandic students.

Also a national youth organization involving some 2,000 school children sprang up a few years ago and students wore uniforms, carried Nazi banners, and started a newspaper which, however, failed for lack of funds.

Nazi Party Flourishes.

After one Werner Gerlach, a high Nazi freshly expelled from Switzerland for subversive activity and a close friend of Reichsmarshal Goering, arrived in Reykjavik in March, 1939, as German consul, the Icelandic Nazi party, known as Thodernis Flokkur, developed rapidly.

The presence of a Nazi of such high standing indicated that Hitler's government was seriously interested in Iceland's potentialities.

Impartial Icelanders noted suspicious incidents during the early months of the present war, such as the shipwreck of a German freighter on Iceland's coast from which 70 Nazi officers and men landed with full suitcases and ample money and went to the best hotels. These visitors seemed to be almost all technical experts and inclined to linger unnecessarily long in the country.

PEORIA COUNCIL'S DOG ISSUE TURNS INTO A DOG FIGHT

Aldermen Growl; Crowds Howl; Medics Win.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press service.]

Peoria, Ill., July 8.—More than 500 Peoria citizens, some with babes in arms, crowded into the city council chambers tonight and heard a heated debate which wound up with health authorities retaining the right to send unwanted dogs to Chicago medical schools for research in curing disease.

It was a colorful town hall scene with several of the 17 shirt sleeved, suspender snapping aldermen nearly getting into a fist fight to the accompaniment of cheers and jeers from the gallery. A feature event was the appearance of two Chicagoans, Dr. Anton J. Carlson, nationally famous physiologist, and Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin, sponsor of the Orphans of the Storm dog shelter.

Removal Ban Sought.

The Peoria dog pound is operated by the health department, headed by Dr. Sumner Miller. A city ordinance provides that dogs unclaimed at the pound shall be put to death painlessly. Dr. Miller has been sending some of them to Chicago medical schools, which faced a shortage of the animals. An amendment to the ordinance, introduced by Ald. Joseph Mittleman, would have prevented removal of the dogs from Peoria.

Mrs. McLaughlin, long a foe of vivisection, asserted that dogs are tortured in medical laboratories before being put to death.

"The dog pound is just a collection station for the laboratories," she said. "Chicago medical schools use 1,500 dogs a month. Why should you let the Chicago schools take your dogs?"

"Keep Peoria dogs for Peoria."

Ald. Edward C. Huisman then asked that Dr. Carlson, emeritus professor of physiology at the University of Chicago, be allowed to present the other side. Ald. Mittleman leaped up, ripped off his coat, and objected. "Keep quiet and give a distinguished man a chance," retorted Ald. George Saurs, who has only one arm.

"I'll lick anybody here who tries to shut me up," roared Mittleman, starting toward Saurs and other opponents of the amendment.

Issue Called Profound.

Mittleman was finally quieted and Mayor Edward Woodruff called on Dr. Carlson.

"This issue is profound and nationwide," he said. "I'll stake my reputation as a humaritarian against Mrs. McLaughlin's. We need to experiment on dogs and other animals to find methods of preventing and curing disease."

World Has Weightier Problems.

Ald. Earl F. Greer, urging defeat of the amendment, said there were weightier matters in the world today.

"The universe is on fire," he said. "Shouldn't we try to stop that useless sacrifice rather than save a few dogs?"

Nine aldermen then voted to suspend the council rules to permit a ballot on the amendment. Seven voted against the suspension and the 17th did not vote. As proponents did not have the needed two-thirds vote, their motion was lost. Thus, at least temporarily, Chicago medical schools will continue to receive the dogs.

SLAYING SUSPECT SEIZED AS CROWD IN PARK WATCHES

There were 13 pictures of Harvey Rogers in La Follette park, Potomac and Lavergne avenues, last night. But it was no celebration honoring Mr. Rogers, an ex-convict and bank robber. The pictures were in the possession of 13 policemen, seeking Rogers for questioning in the murder last April of Joseph Todd, another ex-convict.

Rogers walked into the park, saw the police, and walked right out again. Policeman Frank Pape was after him, however, and as several hundred spectators of two softball games watched, chased and caught Rogers after firing three shots. Sergt. Edward Dooley, in charge of the police squads, said Rogers dived over a fence in his escape attempt.

Rogers, Todd, and another former convict named Thomas O'Brien, shot and killed by Springfield police early this month, are said by police to have either kidnaped or robbed James [Big Jim] Martin, colored policy king, some time ago, and also to have held up Joe Collucci, alleged west side gambler. Todd was shot down one sunny afternoon as he walked with his girl and a dog near Monroe and Paulina streets.

JUGO-SLAV GROUP URGES CAUTION IN WAR RELIEF GIFTS

Hodes Employe Tells of Ad Drive Today.

The Yugoslav-American Relief Committee, Inc., yesterday cautioned Chicagoans against making war relief donations to unauthorized agencies. The warning, approved in a meeting in the Serbian Orthodox church, 1905 Schiller street, was signed by George Skokich, president of the committee.

At the same session the committee named a delegation of three to confer today with State's Attorney Courtney. They will ask that he investigate solicitation of funds and newspaper advertisments among business houses and professional people.

The committee acted after Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes announced Monday he is investigating reports that the prestige of his office had been used to promote the sale of advertisments.

Explanation Is Sought.

Hodes asked Steve Warnick, an employé of his office, to make a full explanation today of a special July 4 edition of the Jugoslavenski Glasnik [Jugo-Slav Herald] of which Warnick is publisher and advertising manager.

The Yugoslav-American committee said a number of business men had complained to it that they had been given the impression not only that the corporation council's office had indorsed the edition, but that a percentage of the money they paid would go to relief of Jugo-Slavs in the war zone.

Hodes asserted he had known nothing of the scheme nor of Warnick's newspaper connection. He said it is understood definitely among employés of his office that they are to have no gainful outside occupations.

Says He Made No Profit.

Warnick's explanation, to be handed to Hodes today, states that he acted thru humanitarian motives and that he realized no profit from the special edition of the Jugo-Slav Herald.

Warnick says he paid 50 per cent of the $2,000 proceeds to an advertising solicitor and sent a gift of $200 to Constantin Fotich, Jugo-Slav minister to the United States. The money was intended for relief of Jugo-Slavs in concentration and prison camps, he said.

Warnick said the corporation counsel's office was referred to during the solicitations, only as a means of identifying him to non-Jugo-Slavs.

The delegation named to confer today with State's Attorney Courtney includes Skokich, president of the Yugoslav-American committee; Ilija Tarailo, treasurer, and Mrs. Nada Rashovich, a member.

BOY, 3, FALLS; FRACTURES SKULL.

Lawrence Kress Jr., 3 years old, suffered a fractured skull and other injuries yesterday when he fell from a porch railing of his home at 2111 North Kedzie avenue. He was taken to the Norwegian-American hospital.

MANY TIMES

In a speech at Cleveland last Nov. 2, three days before his re-election, President Roosevelt said:

"There is nothing secret about our foreign policy. . . . I have stated it many times before, not only in words, but in action. I now restate it.

"The first purpose of our foreign policy is to keep our country out of war. At the same time we seek to keep foreign conceptions of government out of the United States.

"The second purpose of this policy is to keep war as far away as possible from the shores of the entire western hemisphere."

300 OF 941 GAIN ADMITTANCE TO CHICAGO NORMAL

The board of education announced yesterday that 300 candidates for admittance to the undergraduate division of the Chicago Normal college, out of a total of 941 applicants, had passed both written and oral examinations and been chosen as students. The college trains candidates for places as teachers in the elementary schools of the city.

In the graduate division, which gives special training to college graduates who wish to become teachers, there were 137 applicants for admission, of whom 53 passed both types of examination. The oral exams were given by five committees, each composed of five university professors nominated by the presidents of the University of Illinois, University of Chicago, and Loyola, De Paul, and Northwestern universities.

N. Y. POLL SHOWS WAR SENTIMENT GROWING COOLER

New York, July 8 [Special].—Public sentiment on the go to war issue—already cold as measured by the New York News postcard poll—was cooling off still more today coincident with the apparent slowing down of the Nazi blitzkrieg against soviet Russia.

Tabulators counted fresh batches of ballots, bringing to 64,598 the total cast in the state on the question: "Shall the United States enter the war to help Britain defeat Hitler?" Results to date are:

Yes—20,201 or 31.3 per cent.
No—44,397 or 68.7 per cent.

Returns have been received so far from 45 of New York City's 62 assembly districts which have voted "no," 38,674 to 17,933. The first 17 out of 57 upstate and Long Island counties to ballot have voted "no," 5,723 to 2,268. Today the anti-war state-wide percentage increased fractionally for the third consecutive day.

America First Group Asks Removal of Knox, Stimson

The Glen Ellyn chapter of the America First committee voted unanimously last night to send a telegram to President Roosevelt demanding the removal of Secretary of the Navy Knox and Secretary of War Stimson. About 100 persons attended the meeting, held in the new local headquarters at 413 North Main street. George Day is chairman of the chapter.

CITES CARDINAL'S PLEA: LET WARS OF OTHERS ALONE

Advice to Americans on Defense Recalled.

Mrs. Janet Ayer Fairbank, national vice chairman of the America First committee, last night cited the declaration of Cardinal William O'Connell of Boston, Mass., dean of the American Catholic hierarchy, in answer to Sunday's statement by Bishop Joseph P. Hurley of St. Augustine, Fla., that Americans should follow President Roosevelt's war leads.

The cardinal's statements were made in a recent address in Boston and are reprinted in the current issue of the Catholic magazine, Columbia.

Cites Propaganda Peril.

"We all are a unit," Cardinal O'Connell said. "We all are entirely united on the question of defense. On defense there is no disunity. We were all taught that we must love America and love it more than any other nation in the world. Are we supposed to hide now when we say that? What has come over this nation, anyway? Well, what has come over it is propaganda, pure and simple.

"Of all things in the world I think what we have to be on guard against are these slimy slogans that mean nothing. 'Make the world safe for democracy.' 'War to end war.' O, how slick that is. It sounds so nice.

"'The War to End War.' To bring about what? To bring about disunity, confusion, and, little by little, the loss of everything we hold dear, the loss of our children, the loss of our possessions, the loss of our civil rights. Freedom! Freedom for whom? Freedom of speech? If this smearing goes on it will be freedom of speech for only the deaf mutes.

Let Others Alone, He Urges.

"If we are going out and try to impose our method of life on the whole world, it is not only nonsensical and impossible, but it is utterly wrong, it is tyranny. If they are happier in their way of life, let them alone. But let's try to give them the example that is the leadership America ought to have.

"Now, is America going to play this silly game running around to everybody's fire, trying to extinguish all the blazes, and come back and find its own house in ruins? God forbid!

"That is what we mean when we say 'defense.' Yes, all out for defense and keep out of these foreign wars. I say that; you say that. Well, Washington said it, too."

Bishop Hurley in a radio address said that "the declaration of war, the constitutional prerogative of congress, is no longer in style." He urged that the American people permit President Roosevelt to decide for them when the United States should enter the war.

REPORT ROOSEVELT WILL SEEK ANOTHER 5 BILLION FOR ARMS

Washington, D. C., July 8 (AP).—Informed congressional circles heard reports today that President Roosevelt soon would ask congress for additional preparedness appropriations totaling as high as 5 billion dollars.

These sources said that several billion dollars would be asked for army expansion, another billion for the navy, and a lump sum for supplemental aid to Great Britain.

Chairman Carl Vinson [D., Ga.] of the house naval affairs committee introduced legislation today to carry out a navy department request for authorization to spend 585 million dollars for additional facilities. The bill would authorize 300 millions for shipbuilding equipment and facilities, 160 millions for repairs and alterations to vessels, and 125 millions for ordnance manufacture.

'MIDNIGHT GANG' FOILED IN THRILL SHOW REHEARSAL

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

The mythical midnight gang lost its fire fight with the city and park police yesterday in the opening rehearsal for the crime drama to be presented at the fourth annual Chicago Police and Fire Thrill show in Soldiers' field next Sunday afternoon.

The police and radio actors who will participate went thru the full script for the first time, with Eddie the Clock, chief of the imaginary gang, in his blackest mood. Members of the gang will be seated in the stands when the show begins, and a description of each will be given over the public address system. Spectators who recognize them, however, are asked not to talk with them or interfere with them in any way when they run out upon the field for the gang battle.

"Bandits" Are Nabbed.

The actors held their first script rehearsal of the stage coach robbery drama at the same performance, but the bandits were just as unlucky as the midnight gang. They robbed the stage coach successfully, only to be captured by the sheriff's posse.

Harry M. O'Rourke, executive secretary of the thrill show committee, invited the boys and girls of the Home for Destitute Crippled Children to attend the show's dress rehearsal, to be held at 10 a. m. Saturday. The crippled children ordinarily would not be able to attend the thrill show, but volunteer motorists will transport them to the rehearsal and bring them into the stands.

Anthony J. Mullaney, first deputy chief fire marshal, announced that the firemen's teams in the water fight all will wear costumes of different colors this year, so that the spectators may choose their favorites and cheer them on to victory. One team will wear red, another white, another, blue, and the last green.

Ladder Drill Preview.

Chief George E. Graves and Capt. Peter J. Gleason of the fire department drill school gave a preview of their pompier ladder drill yesterday, sending 25 men scaling the wall of the six story fire tower in unison on their pompier ladders. The ladders, which hook over window sills, resembled nothing so much as a fish's backbone.

The drill school men tested the tower for their life net rescues, and Ralph Bergstrom, who accomplished a slide for life with one man from the lofty tower last year, repeated his assurance that he can make a double rescue on his slide for life next Sunday.

Tickets for the show are selling rapidly. They are on sale at Gate O, the south entrance to Soldiers' field, and from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. at THE TRIBUNE public service office at Madison and Dearborn streets. The show is sponsored by the Chicago police and fire departments and the Chicago Park district, in cooperation with THE TRIBUNE.

Two Held in Shooting Say They Were Firing at Target

James Riley, colored, 40 years old, of 110 North 22d avenue, Melrose Park, was taken to the county hospital late yesterday after he had been struck in the chest with a .22 caliber bullet while he was working in a lumber yard at 38th avenue and Lake street, Melrose Park. The police arrested Harry Hoagland, 31, and his brother, Rudolph, 34, of 1218 North 37th avenue, who admitted they had been shooting at a target near the lumber yard.

Seeks Citizenship

SIGRID GURIE.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 8 [Special].—Sigrid Gurie, 26 year old Brooklyn born film actress, took first steps yesterday toward becoming an American citizen.

Miss Gurie and her twin brother, Knute, were born in Brooklyn shortly after the arrival of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bjorgulf Haukelid, from Oslo, Norway. Haukelid, Norwegian civil engineer, was consultant on the New York subway. But 11 months later she was taken back to Norway. She returned six years ago, assuming that she was an American citizen. Under a treaty subjects of Norway born in the United States must take special steps to become citizens.

WHITNEY TO GET PAROLE AUG. 11; $214,000 THIEF

Ossining, N. Y., July 8 (AP).—Richard Whitney, five times president of the New York Stock exchange and now convict 94,835 in Sing Sing prison, will be free Aug. 11 to begin life anew. He will return to his native Massachusetts, where he must report to a parole officer weekly until 1948.

Richard Whitney.

On Aug. 11—10 days after his 53d birthday—Whitney will have served three years and four months, the statutory minimum less time off for good behavior, of his five to 10 year sentence for first degree larceny. He pleaded guilty of having stolen $214,000 worth of securities.

On the day he went to jail, April 12, 1938, a bankruptcy schedule filed before a referee showed the combined liabilities of Whitney and the firm he dominated exceeded the combined assets by more than 11 million dollars.

The former society broker, meeting a requirement that every parolee be assured of a future home and employment, will become manager of a country estate whose chief revenue is from the sale of milk. The estate is 100 miles from Boston. His wife and daughter will accompany him.

PRISON STRIKE ENDED; LEADERS OFF TO ALCATRAZ

Leavenworth Quiet; Work for Army Resumed.

Leavenworth, Kas., July 8 [Special].—The strike of 1,100 convict workers at the big federal penitentiary here was settled today following the transfer of the ring leaders to Alcatraz Island and other institutions.

James V. Bennett.

Prison routine was returning to normal except for an increase of the work week from 39 to 44 hours, a production stepup that prompted the strike among convicts making shoes and brushes for the army.

The demonstration began last Thursday with prisoners in the shoe factory folding their arms and refusing to operate machines. They demanded higher pay, double time for hours in excess of 38 a week, and additional good behavior time if they boosted production as the army asked. Nominal pay is given convicts upon completion of their sentences.

Spreads to Other Factories.

The sitdown quickly spread to other prison factories that turn out brushes, clothing, furniture, and printed matter. There was no work July 4, but the strike was resumed Saturday, then was interrupted Sunday. No further attempt was made to work the inmates pending a thoro inquiry.

"A few long term, habitual offenders who have been retained at Leavenworth in the hope that they would be cooperative have been removed from the institution," announced James V. Bennett, federal prison director, in Washington, D. C.

Cooperation Expected.

"Some of these are of the type who ordinarily would be classified for Alcatraz and they have therefore been transferred to that institution. A few others have been sent to other federal institutions, including the ones at Atlanta and Terre Haute, Ind.

"At other federal penal institutions, where other types of goods are made for defense activities, the men have been enthusiastic and anxious to help. It is believed this same attitude will hereafter prevail at Leavenworth."

Washington, D. C., July 8 (AP).—James F. Byrnes was sworn in at the White House today as an associate justice of the Supreme court.

Before an assembly of officials, friends, and members of his family, the former Democratic senator from South Carolina took the oath of office in President Roosevelt's office. The oath was administered by an old friend, Chief Justice Richard Whaley of the United States Court of Claims.

Among those watching was Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, whose appointment to the Supreme court was confirmed by the senate yesterday. When Jackson is sworn in the court will be up to its full membership of nine.

U. S. AND BRITAIN URGED TO WELD FIGHTING FORCE

M.P. Urges a Common War Cabinet.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 9 [Wednesday].—Col. Josiah Wedgwood, Labor member of parliament and staunch advocate of an Anglo-American union, outlined in an article from New York in this morning's Daily Express the first four steps on which "pro-unionists ought to concentrate." He is in the United States on a visit.

"Only a miracle can end this war before some union between America and Britain is brought about," Wedgwood said.

Sees Unified Taxation.

"If we are going to scare off America from coming into the war by talking of union I stand mute and refuse to plead," he emphasized, and then asserted:

"From the war in which accounts between Britain and America are now getting somewhat mixed, the step forward to a common army, navy, and air force—and taxation to pay for them—is not far distant."

Welding the two countries into a single union, he declared, "is now going on under our noses, only troubled by some difference of flag and oath."

Wedgwood cited these first steps on which unionists should concentrate—"even if those first steps have to await that blessed date when the new world, in all its power and might, steps forth to rescue the liberation of the old."

1. "A common citizenship that involves British citizens having votes in America and Americans having votes in the British empire," as well as mutual freedom from police and immigration control.

Urges Common War Cabinet.

2. "An interchange of officers in navy, army, and air forces."

3. "A common war cabinet; the President and Churchill must get together for constant consultation, advice, and decision."

4. "An interchange of politicians in exchange visits." He suggested that 20 senators be sent as representatives to the British parliament and an equal number of British peers be sent to congress.

"We in Great Britain have all to gain" from a union and "the invitation must come from America," Wedgwood admitted.

Senator Bulow Undergoes Operation in Washington

Washington, D. C., July 8 (AP).—Senator William J. Bulow [D., S. D.] underwent an operation today for a prostate gland condition and his condition was reported later to be satisfactory.

ARMY TO START A 'FLYING FERRY' LINE TO BRITAIN

Designed to Carry Officials Back and Forth.

Washington, D. C., July 8.—The army air corps has established a transport service to carry officials directly between this country and British landing fields, it was disclosed today.

Whether planes actually have begun operating is not known, but if not they will be in a matter of weeks or days.

The aim of this new service is to provide more direct and faster service for the growing number of officials going to London on government missions than is possible via the Pan-American airways route via Lisbon.

The service is to start with a small number of flights, probably one round trip a week. If equipment and personnel become available, daily trans-Atlantic hops are probable.

News Is Withheld.

Plans for the new service have been known in informed quarters for some time but publication of them was withheld at the request of Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, and Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold, deputy chief of staff for air. The request was withdrawn today when it was learned that official British quarters in New York had permitted announcement.

Land Planes to Be Used.

The official transport service is to be operated with "demilitarized" planes flown by air corps officers and crews. The transports will fly from New York to Newfoundland, and thence probably via Iceland or the Faroe Islands to England.

Land planes will be used instead of sea planes such as are those operated by Pan-American. They would be helpless if forced down on the water, but the possibility of such emergencies is considered rare.

HUNT THIEVES WHO LOOTED TRUCKS.

Chicago avenue police last night were seeking a band of thieves who broke into three trucks parked within a few blocks of each other on the near north side and stole merchandise valued at $1,000.

RUSSIANS HURL NAZI ARMY BACK TO RUMANIA LINE

Reds Claim Foe's Drives Held Up Everywhere.

MOSCOW, July 9 [Wednesday]—(AP).—The Red army today announced it had launched a series of counter-attacks against German forces at many points along a 1,000 mile front stretching almost from the Black sea to the Baltic, and at one point had driven the Germans back into Rumania. Big tank, artillery, and air battles were reported successfully "holding up the enemy advance."

The Russians claimed progressive destruction of various German and Rumanian armies. They pictured not only a successful defense of Russian soil, but, more significantly, an enormous and still growing German casualty list.

At the southern end of the long front, the communique said:

"In the vicinity of Balti [Bessarabia], our troops made a number of counterattacks on Rumanian and German troops, as a result of which the enemy was driven back in disorder beyond the river Prut, throwing away arms and equipment."

Repulse Thrust Toward Kiev.

The Prut is the river border between Bessarabia and Rumania proper which the Germans crossed several days ago.

To the north of this sector, in the Novograd-Volynski region, where the Germans have been pounding hard for days in their main thrust toward Kiev, capital of the Ukraine, Russian forces battled fiercely, "stubbornly repulsing an offensive by large enemy tank units."

In the region to the south of Novograd Volynski, an earlier communique had reported two complete infantry regiments, one of which was suggested unofficially to be the famous Guards regiment of the Rumanian army, were destroyed.

In the Mogilev Podolski region, to the north of Balti, where the Germans were trying to cross the Dniester river, the eastern border of Bessarabia, the earlier communique said "the enemy is being wiped out part by part."

Red Air Force Active.

The Red air force was reported active thruout Tuesday, successfully attacking enemy aircraft in airdromes and striking at enemy tanks and motorized units. The day's plane score was reported as 56 German planes destroyed to four Russian. The Monday score was claimed to be 58 German against five Russian.

At Ostrov and Polotsk in the Baltic section of the front, the fighting was heavy thruout Tuesday. It continued into Wednesday in the area about Polotsk, near the Latvian border, with the Germans trying to entrench themselves near Borkovichi on the northern bank of the Dvina river.

Farther to the north, at Ostrov, the Russian troops frequently counter-attacked in fierce fighting which cost the Germans "heavy losses."

6,000 Troops Destroyed.

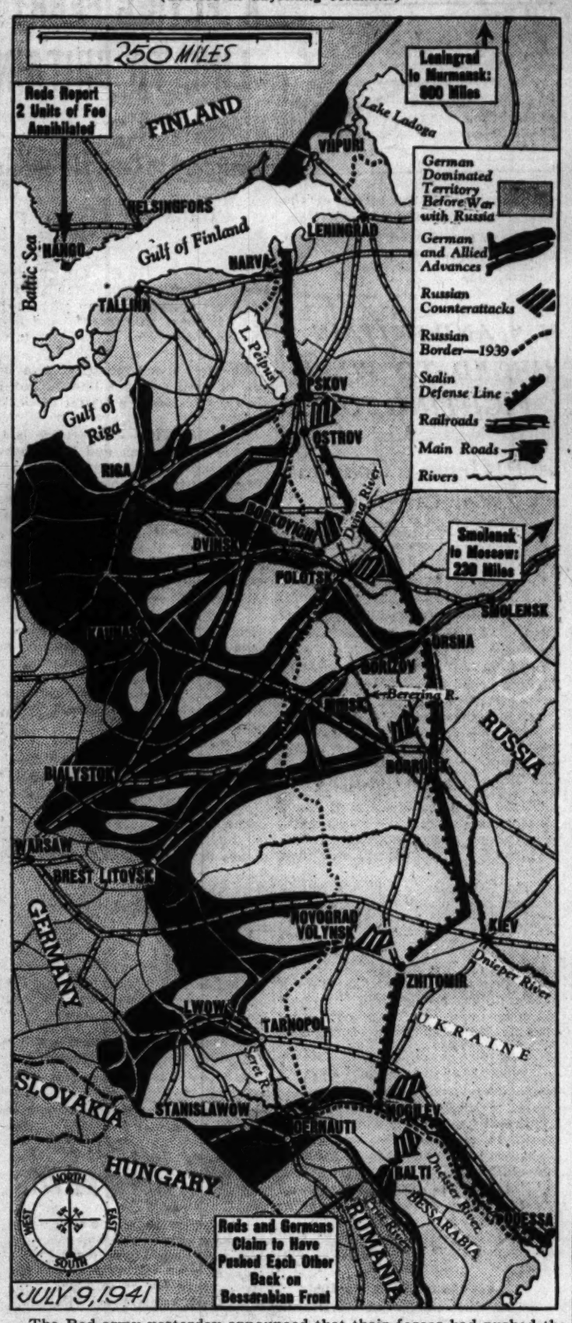
The latest communique made no mention of the Germans' center drive aimed at Moscow, but an earlier one told of the annihilation of at least 6,000 German troops.

Near Bobruisk [southeast of Minsk], where Russian troops have made their bloodiest stand to hold the approaches to Moscow, two invading infantry battalions were cut down, in Nazi efforts to force the river Dnieper.

Vessels of the Russian northern fleet, with air force coöperation, "made a successful landing for coöperation with the Red army," the communique said, without stating exactly where the landing was made.

German Drives Against Russians

(Stories in adjoining columns.)



The Red army yesterday announced that their forces had pushed the Germans back to Rumania at one point in Bessarabia and had counter-attacked in a number of other areas. Dispatches indicated penetration of Russian territory by German drives along highways and railroads, but there were reports that guerillas were operating behind the German lines. Altho information is indefinite, this map attempts to show where the guerillas are operating between the Nazi lines.

GERMANS ADMIT FIGHTING NOW IS 'BITTEREST YET'

Storm Tricky, Deceptive Russian Defenses.

BERLIN, July 8 (AP).—The bitterest fighting yet encountered in the Nazi-soviet war was reported unfolding on the Russian plains tonight as the German infantry stormed tricky and deceptive defenses which, Nazis said, had been prepared for years by soviet army leaders.

The German high command devoted just one sentence to the Russian campaign, and that is customary when the fighting is hard and great issues are at stake. The daily communique said:

[Military circles in Vichy, capital of unoccupied France, heard that the German drive against Russia had been virtually stopped for four full days and German losses were enormous. Among reasons given for stopping the offensive were the necessity to regroup German units, reorganize supply lines, and guerrilla attacks in the rear of German columns. Vichy sources said the Germans were considerably behind their set schedule.]

Nazis Stress Difficulties.

Altho the high command threw little light on what was happening at the front, other German war reports provided German readers with fuller accounts. The difficulties which the Germans are meeting were stressed.

The army was in contact with the Stalin line at many points and the German air force was operating far beyond it, smashing at the road to Moscow, raining bombs on Russian reinforcements, and attempting to pulverize fortifications visible from the air.

The German news agency DNB said German and Rumanian troops had broken stubborn resistance of the Russians on the Bessarabian front and thrown the defenders back as far as the Dniester river in some places, taking many prisoners and much war materials. The Dniester is the boundary between Bessarabia, which Russia got from Rumania a year ago, and the Ukraine.

142,216 More Prisoners.

It was reported that in the four day period from July 2 thru July 5 a total of 584 tanks and 550 guns was brought in by the Germans. An additional 142,216 Russian prisoners were reported captured in that period.

The railway city of Zhitomir, lying in the Stalin line region and only 80 miles southwest of Kiev, capital of the Ukraine, was declared to have been hammered to ruins by the German air force.

Zhitomir, with a population of 73,000, is at the junction of two railway lines and is regarded as important for the movement of Russian troops in and out of the northern Ukraine.

The well informed commentary Dienst aus Deutschland said that the German army must be continually on the alert for death dealing Russian tricks. One tactic, Dienst said, is for Russians to lie about a field as if they were corpses, and when unwary Germans pass to leap suddenly to their feet and pour a murderous fire at the Germans.

Deceived by Casemates.

In other instances cleverly camouflaged Russian casemates have let Germans roar by unit after unit without betraying their presence, only to open up a withering fire on the Germans from the rear.

Russian armored car crews were said to disappear into fields of grain when their machines were put out of action, only to turn up elsewhere as effective snipers.

German reports said that a "pursuit of the enemy" toward Kiev was in progress on the southern end of the long battlefront.

In the central sector, in the region of the Minsk-Moscow highway, fierce fighting was said to be under way. Farther up, on the Baltic front, the Germans were reported bombing the Russians along the Russian-Estonian frontier near Lake Peipus.

HELD ON CHARGE OF GIRL, 13.

Anthony Navarro, 32 years old, 1212 North State street, a Mexican, was held to the grand jury yesterday by Judge John T. Zuris of Felony court on a charge of raping a girl, 13 years old, whom he enticed to his rooms July 3.

NAZI WOUNDED POUR INTO BERLIN, TRAVELER SAYS

New York, July 8 [Special].—A German traveler reaching Stockholm said there is a feeling in Germany that Nazi losses have been about as large as the Russians claim, according to a report today from the Columbia Broadcasting system correspondent at Stockholm. [A soviet report yesterday set Nazi casualties at 60,000 a day.] German estimates of the dead and wounded are judged by the number of hospital trains reaching Berlin from the eastern front, the German traveler said.

"It is said the reason the German wounded are sent so far back from the front is that hospitals in Poland and East Prussia already are overfilled," he said.

British Sink Nazi Sub Set to Hit Convoy at Gibraltar

LA LINEA, Spain, July 8 (AP).—British gunboats were reported today to have destroyed a German submarine with depth charges in the strait of Gibraltar. The submarine was spotted by a plane as it was about to attack a convoy of 27 merchantmen, the British said.

STRIKE AT HITLER NOW, LITVINOV BEGS THE BRITISH

Asserts There Is Menace in Nazi Doctrine.

LONDON, July 8 (AP).—Maxim Litvinov, former foreign commissar of the soviet union, appealed to the British people tonight to "strike now" because each blow struck at Adolf Hitler would be more effective now, he said, than ever.

Maxim Litvinov.

Litvinov, who had not appeared before the soviet public since 1939, broadcast in English to the British and American people. He described Hitler as a treacherous character and declared there was an underlying menace in Naziism.

Calls It War for Freedom.

Few countries who continue to preserve an independent existence can feel secure in an illusion of neutrality, said Litvinov.

"The soviet union and Great Britain," he said, "are fighting not only for the integrity and independence of their states but also for the freedom of their peoples. Hitlerism must be annihilated as the greatest obstacle to civilization.

Litvinov concluded his bitter attack on Hitler by saying:

"The peoples of the soviet union have responded with enthusiasm to the appeal of our government and our beloved leader Stalin. We shall fight until Fascist barbarity is erased from the earth."

Litvinov in Total Eclipse.

Litvinov was replaced as foreign commissar in August, 1939, by then Premier Vyacheslav Molotov, who added the foreign portfolio to his other duties. This shift occurred a few months before the signing of the German-Russian nonaggression pact.

Litvinov has been in almost total eclipse since then, and this spring Josef Stalin succeeded Molotov as premier.

Uprising in India

SIMLA, India, July 8 (AP).—Two Indian soldiers were killed and seven wounded in skirmishes with hostile tribesmen in the Waziristan area on India's troubled northwest frontier, British officials announced today.

The tribesmen, declared to have been induced by the fakir of Ipi to interfere "with communications in Datta Khel territory" and commit other sabotage, were said to have suffered 30 or more casualties.

Earlier it was reported in New Delhi that the fakir, who has conducted a 30 year holy war against Britain, was making contacts with enemy influences in Afghanistan. German leaflets have been filtering from Afghanistan into the northwest area, where the fakir has a considerable following, reports said.

[For years the possibility of a drive from Russia into adjoining northwest India has worried Britain. Now it must prepare against a possible sweep into Asia by axis forces and a drive into the northwest provinces aimed at plunging India's millions into revolt.]

FORMER OFFICIAL SUED BY DAIRY TO RECOVER $55,597

The Union Dairy company of Chicago filed a suit in the Superior court yesterday seeking to recover $55,597 from Francis L. Flannigan, a former director and treasurer of the company. The bill, filed by Attorney Martin J. McNally, alleged that Flannigan had "willfully and corruptly taken and converted to his own use" the money in question.

Flannigan, who resides at 5820 Washington boulevard, said that "according to their own books they owe me more than I owe them."

PETAIN DEMANDS FRANCE BE RULED BY A HIERARCHY

Hints Desire to Do Away with Suffrage.

VICHY, France, July 8 (AP).—The new France will weigh the value as well as the number of ballots that are cast, Chief of State Marshal Petain declared today in an address of guidance to the committee which he has named to write a new constitution.

He thus indicated his desire to do away with universal male suffrage in the state he envisages, one which he said must be "authoritarian and hierarchic."

Defines People He Wants.

The main problem, he said, is to "replace a 'sovereign people' exercising absolute rights in total irresponsibility, with a people whose rights derive from their duties."

He defined the people he wants as a hierarchy of families, professions, and communities which must in turn produce a "hierarchy of men who are selected by service rendered to the community, of whom a small number will advise, a few command and, at the top, the chiefs who will govern."

Urges Family Authority.

In the past, he said, authority came from sheer numbers; in the future, it must come from the "natural groups without which there is neither people, state, nor nation."

Specifically, he went on, authority must come from the family—"a commune which is a federation of families and organized professions and trades."

NAZIS SHOWER PAMPHLETS IN RAIDS ON BRITAIN

LONDON, July 9 [Wednesday] (AP).—German warplanes subjected widely scattered points in Britain to desultory bombings early today interspersing their explosive and incendiary bombs with leaflets proclaiming, "the battle of the Atlantic is being lost."

The raids on the Midlands, East Anglia, southwest England and northeast Scotland apparently were in response to Britain's incessant heavy bombing of German territory on the continent. That campaign, hammered home by hundreds of planes, was directed last night at targets in northern France and the Wilhelmshaven naval base in Germany. British flyers eluded Germany's new anti-aircraft vessels in the channel to reach their objectives.

Targets attacked in the afternoon and night included the synthetic oil plant between Bethune and Lens in the Lille area. Monday night the British had attacked Cologne, Osnabrueck, Frankfurt, Muenchen-Gladbach, Muenster, Duisburg, Duesseldorf, Krefeld, Ostend, Dunkirk and Boulogne. The Germans attacked Southampton, Portsmouth and shipping off the British coasts.

lanes Mr. Roosevelt has committed the navy to protect.

Reports in official quarters are that the administration plans to send American troops to the Azores and the Cape Verde Islands as soon as Great Britain can obtain the consent of Portugal. The British initiated the negotiations for the occupation of Iceland and are said to be equally anxious for American troops to take over the Azores and Cape Verdes.

Altho Portugal is a virtual protectorate of Britain, its government is reported to be apprehensive that American occupation of the islands would provoke a German attack upon Portugal.

The President said in his message to congress yesterday that he had ordered the navy to take all necessary steps to insure the safety of communications not only to Iceland but also to "all other strategic outposts." The President asserted occupation of Iceland by Germany would threaten all shipping in the North Atlantic and particularly the steady flow of munitions to Britain.

Dakar Omitted for Present.

The administration plans to take over the Azores and Cape Verdes, it was reported, on the pretext German occupation of those islands would threaten South America and shipping in the South Atlantic. There is said to be no present intention of attempting to seize Dakar, the heavily fortified base in French West Africa, because administration strategists believe German war craft based at Dakar can be combatted effectively by American forces based on the Cape Verdes.

In commenting on extending the period of army training and removing the limit on the zone of service—recommended by Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff—the President said, however, that he did not plan to send a message to congress on the subject.

The proposa. to occupy the Azores and Cape Verdes, in addition to Iceland, is said to have occasioned the request last week by Gen. Marshall for authority to retain National Guardsmen, draftees, and reservists in service indefinitely and send them anywhere.

Under existing law such troops cannot be sent outside the western hemisphere, except to possessions and territories of the United States.

Iceland Strength Kept Secret.

According to the navy department, only marines and sailors have been landed in Iceland, and the number has not been disclosed. Reliable sources intimated, however, that not more than 2,000 or 3,000 men have been landed thus far. British forces in Iceland eventually are to be replaced entirely by American troops, and some units of the regular army may be used for this purpose.

According to officials of the war department, however, almost all units of the regular army include draftees or National Guardsmen, and it would be necessary to amend existing law to send any considerable force of army troops outside the western hemisphere.

ARMS WORKERS TO BE DEFERRED BY DRAFT RULING

A new draft classification for workers in the preparedness industries, calling for indefinite deferment for men needed in fields where a "serious interruption or delay is likely to impair the national defense program," was announced yesterday by local selective service officials.

The new classification, known as Class 2-B, was created in an official circular issued from Washington, D. C.

Paul G. Armstrong, state director of selective service, said he hoped that as many as possible of the 23,379 men who registered last Tuesday will attend meetings of their local boards today at which serial numbers will be assigned. Cards of new registrants will be shuffled at these meetings, which will begin at 3 p. m. at each board office, and serial numbers will be assigned. The order in which these numbers are drawn in a second national lottery to be held at a time to be announced later will determine the order in which registrants will be assigned.

SAYS U. S. SENDS BRITAIN WORLD'S BEST EQUIPMENT

CAIRO, Egypt, July 8 (AP).—Capt. Oliver Lyttelton, British war cabinet member who has been delegated to supervise political affairs in the middle east, said at a press conference today that the equipment America is sending Britain is "the best material available in the world."

He declared the British citizen "realizes our American friends are doing their best for us. Their supplies have turned from a trickle into a river and we are expecting it to become a flood."

ICELAND SEIZED TO FORCE US INTO WAR—WHEELER

Says Roosevelt Deliberately Seeks an 'Incident.'

Washington, D. C., July 8 (AP).—Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] asserted today that the administration had arranged United States occupation of Iceland because it wanted "to get us into a shooting war" and realized that it had to have "a hell of a series of incidents to get this congress to declare war."

He made these remarks at a press conference at which he also said he was informed that Iceland already had been occupied when he forecast the move last week. Wheeler said his prediction was based on letters he had received from parents saying that their sons would receive mail there.

He added that it was a "known fact that the President has previously intimated very definitely that he was considering taking over the Cape Verde and Canary Islands."

British "State the Facts."

Wheeler said that recent contentions by British military leaders that American soldiers would be needed to defeat Germany "stated the facts."

"In order to lick Hitler," he declared, you have got to land troops on European soil and drive him back. This talk about starving German people or licking them by bombing their cities is sheer poppycock and every military and naval authority of whom I have heard recognizes that to be a fact."

Wheeler contended that the only reason the administration wanted to take over Iceland was 'to draw us closer to the war."

Opposed by Portuguese.

He expressed the opinion that the administration had been reluctant to move into the Cape Verde and Canary Islands only because the Portuguese and Spanish governments, respectively, would not sanction the move.

Earlier in the day the White House reproved Wheeler for saying last Thursday that the United States was about to take over Iceland. The White House took the position he had divulged a military secret.

A London correspondent of the New York Times reported the British were angered by Wheeler's prediction. They felt that anything he might say about the movement of American troops was his own business, the article said, adding: "But they are angry over the fact that he involved their own troops in giving away a military secret. . . ."

AIR CORPS CALLS RESERVE LIST TO IMMEDIATE DUTY

Washington, D. C., July 8 (AP).—The war department disclosed today that all air corps reserve officers, not already on active duty and whose civilian occupations are not of primary importance to the defense program, were being ordered to extended active duty.

The actual number thus summoned will not be made public, the department said, but indications were that it ran into several hundred and that possibly less than 10 per cent of the air officers would be left in civilian life. By Aug. 1, the department said, all available officers of this branch are scheduled to be on duty.

Those not being called to duty because their present occupations are considered more important to defense than their military services, it was said, included men employed in aeronautical, transportation and allied industries, and in flying schools and other activities directly contributing to the defense effort.

RESCUE DRIVER OF DEATH CAR AS CROWD FORMS

Washburn, Ill., July 8 [Special].—C. E. Spangler, 62 years old, heard a crash outside his real estate office this afternoon. Running out, he found that his parked car had been struck by a passing automobile. As he remonstrated the driver of the other car suddenly backed it over him. Then it shot ahead, running over him again, as the motorist fled, leaving him dying in the street.

Several townsfolk set out in pursuit. A mile and a half away they forced the speeding car into a ditch and captured its driver. He was identified as Raymond L. Thomas, 32, of Peoria, a former distillery employé. Witnesses said he appeared intoxicated.

Aroused by the killing of one of the town's leading citizens, a crowd collected. It became further incensed when it was learned that state police had been hunting Thomas for a hit-and-run collision on state route 51 earlier in the day. Fearing violence, authorities rushed Thomas to nearby Eureka where he was held under heavy guard.

REVEALS ICELAND HOPED NEVER TO SEE A SOLDIER

Tribune Writer Tells of Visit on Island.

quered Norway, there were at least 200 Germans of military age in Iceland. I have been told by a Norwegian officer rescued from the Germans in last winter's raid on the Lofoten Islands that the Nazis planned a westward advance via Jan Mayen [a barren volcanic island 300 miles northeast of Iceland and formerly a Norwegian meteorological and whaling station], thence to Iceland, Greenland, and Labrador.

But the British, who became acutely alarmed at this possibility when the Germans got control of Norway as a convenient stepping off point, also had plans.

As early as December, 1939, the British government made its first formal request of the Icelandic government to be permitted to occupy the island for the purpose of defending it. The Icelanders, however, repeatedly refused this request even after the German occupation of Denmark and Norway in April, which left the jubilant Icelanders completely independent of any foreign power for the first time since 1261.

British Send Troops.

Informing the Icelandic government that because of the war emergency it was unfortunately necessary to occupy the country regardless of Icelandic wishes, the British sent a force which landed in Reykjavik at daybreak on May 10 last year.

The reason Gerlach was not advised by the Icelandic government of the approaching British invasion seems to be that the Icelanders wanted to avoid a fight. They preferred occupation by the British to a Nazi occupation which would be followed by a British blockade and probably naval and aerial bombardment with severe hardships for the people.

All large ships, government buildings, Gerlach, and other known Nazis were seized, whereupon a silk hatted British minister to Iceland landed and presented his credentials and a formal explanation to the Icelandic prime minister.

The Icelandic government later formally protested the British action and has ever since held to its policy of official inhospitality, yet noninterference, toward the British.

Never Wanted to See Soldier.

The view of most Icelanders was expressed by the prime minister, who sadly remarked to me, "We Icelanders had hoped never to see a soldier in all our lives."

The British have never shown the Icelandic government proof of the Nazi designs on Iceland because, say British intelligence officers evasively, "we are not prepared to take the risk of giving any information unless it is necessary." Anyway, the Icelandic government officially doubts the existence of such proof.

However, Icelanders have admitted to me that they are glad at least that the danger of a German invasion is now apparently eliminated. What the thoughtful ones fear is that the British will not want to relinquish their costly fortifications after the war.

BRITISH AMAZED BY QUALITY OF U. S. EQUIPMENT

Huge Quantity Taken on Iceland Venture.

New York, July 8 [Special].—British troops in Iceland were amazed at the quality and quantity of American equipment landed in Iceland by United States marines, a National Broadcasting company observer in Reykjavik, the capital, said tonight in the first broadcast to come from Iceland since President Roosevelt announced occupation of the island by American forces.

"Yesterday afternoon the whole island, Icelanders and the British garrison as well," said the broadcaster, "were stirred by the news which passed from mouth to mouth that a strange convoy was approaching, steaming across the calm gray seas.

"Groups of soldiers and Icelanders assembled on vantage points to watch this inspiring sight. Altho the early stages of the journey were not so lucky with the weather, it certainly was calm when the convoy arrived. And to many [of the marines] their first sight of Iceland must have been a surprise.

Find Pastoral Scene.

"No ice, but instead, a land of towering, massive mountains with their tops lost in mist, and at their feet bright emerald-green fields, dotted with sheep. Little groups of white washed farm houses with a church in its group.

"The ships dropped anchor in the harbor and the adventure began. Representatives of the British forces went aboard the American ships shortly afterwards and conventions of lasting friendship were made.

"Not many Americans came ashore last night. But surprise was there just the same. In Iceland at this time of the year daylight never goes and at midnight it still seems midday. This morning a few minutes before 10 o'clock things started moving.

General Gets Salute.

"The commander of the British troops, accompanied by members of his staff, waited at the pier to greet the first American soldiers to set foot on Icelandic soil. A launch flying the American flag was already in sight and in a short time came to the pier. An American general stepped to the shore followed by his staff. There were handshsakes all around and then, as they began to walk up the pier, the guard of honor provided by a local battalion gave the general a salute.

"After the ceremony came meals. And soon British staff officers, having found mess companions from across the Atlantic, were telling them all they could and making them welcome to Iceland. A fleet of cars was ready to take them to headquarters to their first conference. And in a few minutes the pier was deserted.

"As soon as the cars left, the real business of unloading and disembarking began. All morning the work went on, but it will be many days before the great ships are emptied.

BRITISH ENVOY SHAKEN IN RAID ON CHUNGKING; 2,000 MADE HOMELESS

CHUNGKING, China, July 8 (AP).—Scores of buildings were wrecked, 2,000 Chinese made homeless, and the British ambassador's residence was damaged extensively in Japanese war anniversary raids on Chungking last night and early today. Sir Archibald Clark Kerr, British ambassador, and his staff were in a refuge when his residence was struck. They were shaken but unhurt.

Sir Archibald Kerr.

The Chinese nation heard a message from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, who declared to all friendly nations as the war went into its fifth year:

"We were and are confident China is strong enough to master Japan, but if countries friendly to our cause will but assist us to the best of their ability in our military and economic necessities the progress of our arms will be accelerated."

FINNS RECOVER MUCH OF GROUND CEDED TO RUSSIA

Push Drives Along Shore of Lake Ladoga.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, July 8.—The Finnish army has recovered much of the Finnish territory ceded to soviet Russia in the peace treaty of March, 1940, and today further advances were reported from many sectors of the present front.

On the Karelian front on the northwestern shore of Lake Ladoga the Finns occupied Lahdenpohja, cutting railway communications between Sortavala and Kakisalmi.

There was hard fighting on this front where the Finns made a six mile advance, capturing some soviet artillery, and then defeated a soviet counterattack, destroying a number of tanks.

Deep in Russian Territory.

Farther to the north the Finnish army has penetrated deep into Russian territory and this advance now is threatening Patroskoye. In this area the Finns have passed soviet Karelian villages whose inhabitants had fled into the forests. These people, who are related to the Finns, returned to their homes when they learned those who remained were not ill treated.

From tonight's Finnish communique, a rough idea could be gained of the direction of the Finnish advances.

One attack is directed southeastward in the Vuoksi river valley toward Leningrad. This drive is northeast of Viborg [Viipuri], which also is threatened.

Another drive is directed northeastward around the shores of Lake Ladoga toward the former soviet frontier.

Farther north the German-Finnish armies are advancing toward various points on the Murmansk-Leningrad railroad. The air force has carried out bombing flights and no trains have been operating for more than a week on the railroad.

Russian Bombers Attack.

Strong squadrons of soviet planes continue to bomb the Finnish armies and severe artillery fire also is reported. More than 60 houses were destroyed in a Russian air raid yesterday on Kotka, on the south coast, 80 miles east of Helsingfors.

Last night a thick mist helped the Finns in their patrol activity, especially on the Hango front [west of Helsingfors], where enemy resistance is reported becoming weaker.

The Russians again landed parachute troops in Finland, but these were "rendered harmless," the communique said. Four Russian planes were shot down.

[The Russian communique said two companies which were trying to attack Russian units at Hango "were annihilated by mortar and artillery fire." The Russians also reported fighting in the Murmansk region, in the arctic near the Finnish frontier, and on the central and southern Finnish borders.]

BEIRUT TURNS DOWN ARMISTICE; REPORTS BRITISH DRIVE HALTED

BULLETIN.

SYDNEY, Australia, July 9 [Wednesday] (AP).—Sir Frederick Stewart, Australian minister of external affairs, announced today he had received an official report saying French officials in Syria had declared their readiness to discuss terms for a cessation of hostilities.

BEIRUT, Lebanon, July 8 (AP).—French defenders of Beirut were reported tonight to have rejected a new British offer of armistice and to have thrown back British troops south of the city.

In the Damour area, nine miles south of Beirut, British cavalry and Australian infantry were declared to have suffered heavy losses.

RAF Raids Beirut, Aleppo.

CAIRO, Egypt, July 8 (AP). — Widespread bombing operations in Syria overnight were announced today by the royal air force. Hits on the railway station at Aleppo and on fuel tanks at Beirut were reported.

The British claimed advances on three fronts: west of Demir Kapou, toward Aleppo, and toward Homs from Dier-ez-Zor and north of Djezzine.

SITS IN CELL AND TELLS HER LOVE FOR SLAIN 'DOC'

Woman Reviews Life for Last 18 Years.

BY MARCIA WINN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bloomington, Ind., July 8 [Special].—Caroline G. Payne today broke her three day silence and talked for two hours of the man of whose murder she is accused.

Caroline Payne.

Not a tear glimmered in her narrow, slanting hazel eyes as she told of her 18 years' relationship with Charles O. Mattingly, the "Doc" of her conversation this afternoon. Often she smiled. Altho she smoked many cigarets, holding them at the base of her fingers, she seemed calm and self-assured until the long interview was brought to an abrupt close by her attorney, Q. Austin East.

This came as a result of the question, "When did you last see Mattingly?"

Exhibits Agitation.

Mrs. Payne, startled, fumbled with a matchbox in such agitation that she was unable to light a cigaret. Her reply, when it came, was calm:

"Two weeks ago. In Indianapolis. I met him on the street. He acted nice. We walked around and talked a little while."

"We talked about the—past. It wasn't an unfriendly meeting. He acted very well and I tried to act the same, but I was very hurt."

It was here that Attorney East intervened. His client, he said, was too tired to continue. It was unnecessary for him to add that the interview was approaching the dangerous day of Saturday, July 5, when Mattingly, 41 years old, and chief legal examiner for the Public Service Commission of Indiana, was killed here when five bullets, fired from a .38 Colt automatic, later traced to Mrs. Payne's possession, penetrated his back.

Tires of Engagement.

Mrs. Payne, a black haired, heavy browed woman of 43, whose coloring and facial structure indicate the Indian blood in her veins, was arrested immediately after the shooting. Coroner R. A. Demotte yesterday formally charged her with first degree murder, to which she has entered a plea of not guilty. She is held in jail here without bail for action of the September grand jury.

County Prosecutor Floyd F. Cook says he has conclusive circumstantial evidence against her. In addition, she had threatened Mattingly openly many times since May, 1940, when he married Lurayne Oberholtzer Witchen, his secretary, and thereby definitely severed his 10 years' engagement to Mrs. Payne, Cook says.

It was of this engagement that she talked today, candidly admitting that since she was jilted she has lost 60 of her former 220 pounds. She now weighs 160.

Story Is Convincing.

Her story, told with a convincing simplicity, was one of 18 years' sublimation of self in the man whose body was being lowered, as she talked, into a grave in an Indianapolis cemetery.

During the first 16 years of that sublimation she fed him, clothed him, got him jobs, publicity and political prestige. For the last two she pursued him unconscionably, a persistent, jealous, questioning fury.

She granted the interview in her cell in the Monroe county jail here. For it she had made no concessions in attire. A flowered cotton house coat was drawn loosely around her. Her black hair fell stringily into her eyes. Her dark face, with its aqualine nose and broad mouth, was furrowed.

"I met him in 1923," she began with a reflective pull on her cigaret. "He roomed with me a short while." Here she stopped, a retrospective smile lighting her features.

Took Student Roomers.

She was married then to the late Earl Payne, later a state senator, who divorced her in 1924 after he went into politics with the aid of the Ku Klux Klan. In her large home at 730 East Atwater avenue she took student roomers from Indiana university. Relatives introduced her to Mattingly, then a handsome, fluffy haired pre-law student of 23.

"He stayed here the year around, summer and winter," she continued. "He really started living at my house in 1926, and he stayed there until July 10, 1939."

"When were you first engaged?" she was asked.

"O, I'd say eight or 10 years ago," came her reply. "Once, in 1927, we went to Paris, Ill., to get married, and then we came back."

"Why?" she was asked.

"Well, Doc wasn't working, and I had a job. I didn't know how it would work out, so we postponed it for a while.

Decided to Wait a While.

"We just thought we'd better wait a while. So we waited and didn't do anything about it. There wasn't much business for him then. He had just started in law, and didn't have any experience, of course."

Then Mattingly, an admirer of Paul V. McNutt, handsome Hoosier who now is federal security administrator, decided he would like to enter politics.

"I helped him every way I could," the prisoner said. "Financially or with publicity [she is business manager of the Bloomington Telephone] or any way he needed. I just knew a lot of people and I pushed him all the time.

"We had a car together when he started in," Mrs. Payne continued. "Of course it was always in his name. Later he offered to buy me one for myself, but I didn't see any need to have two."

By this time Mattingly had a McNutt appointment to the lucrative post he held when he died, but altho his office was in the Indianapolis statehouse, he continued to live in Mrs. Payne's home, driving to Indianapolis and back daily.

"I still thought we were engaged," she said of this period. "We would talk about it."

Rift Follows Auto Accident.

In January, 1939, she recounted, they were in an automobile accident, she suffered several injuries, including a deep 12 stitch cut on the forehead. "See?" she said, sweeping her hair back from her brow. "And I lost some teeth, these three," revealing a side gap.

Then a rift began in their tranquility.

"Did you quarrel?" she was asked.

"Well, no," came her slow reply. "We never quarreled much. He wouldn't fuss. He wasn't that kind. He'd just get quiet, very.

"I think we were both nervous from the wreck. I know I was. He was, too."

Then one Monday in July Mattingly did not return home from Indianapolis. He called her from work to say he had placed their collie, "Boy," in a dog hospital for treatment. She thought his words terse and strained. He never came back.

"His things are out there yet," she said sadly. "He never came back to see me. He never has been back."

Attorney Suggests Settlement.

Her first indication of a definite break came in November of 1939 when George Henley, a Bloomington attorney, told her Mattingly had authorized him to tell her that he [Mattingly] wanted to "make a settlement of some kind."

This caused her a 10 day stay in an Indianapolis sanitarium, she said.

On Dec. 26, 1939, she received a curt note from him [it now is in the possession of Prosecutor Floyd, having been found, together with some .380 caliber bullets in her bag] enclosing a check for $2,250. He said the money was "half of the accumulation" and told her she need not answer.

By "accumulation," she said, he meant the money he had saved. During their years together, she said, she had paid the bills and told him to save what money he made.

"The way I understood that check it was just a partial repayment of it all," she said. "He referred to it as a gift. He didn't send any more."

"But that just made me more unhappy than before," she said of it. She continued to haunt his steps. Often she managed to see him as he arrived at the Claypool hotel. When asked if he was surprised to see her, she replied, with a wry smile, "No, I don't think he was."

"Did you ever threaten him?" a reporter asked.

She hesitated, then smiled. "No," she said calmly. "I never did."

"Did his marriage affect you much?"

"Well," and she hesitated again. "I blew up. Naturally, it would make me feel bad."

Then came the incriminating question. "When did you last see Mr. Mattingly?" and her innocent, startled reply, "Two weeks ago."

Mrs. Payne's defense, it is understood, will be insanity, emanating from her accident and her jilting. Prosecutor Floyd said today he will not ask for the death penalty.

52 CLEMENCY PLEAS PUT BEFORE STATE'S NEW PARDON BOARD

Springfield, Ill., July 8 [Special].—The state's new pardon and parole board conducted its first public meeting here today to hear pleas for executive clemency in behalf of 52 convicts, including 28 serving time for murder.

The board, created by the recent legislature, is comprised of the heads of the five subdivisions in the correctional division of the newly organized department of public safety. W. C. Jones of Streator, chairman of the former parole board for 12 years, presided over today's hearing by virtue of being superintendent of the division of correction.

Sitting on the board for the first time were: Col. Frank Whipp, superintendent of prisons; Dr. Paul L. Schroeder, state criminologist; Milton H. Summers, superintendent of parolees' supervision, and William J. Smith, superintendent of crime prevention.

Among the cases taken under advisement was the clemency plea in behalf of Robert C. Schallberg, 56, former cashier of the Peoples Savings Bank and Trust company, Moline, who was convicted in 1931 of having converted $1,200,000 of bank funds to buy real estate.

MR. ROOSEVELT IN ICELAND.

Mr. Roosevelt announced the occupation of Iceland to congress as an accomplished fact. Some of the congressmen may have guessed that something was up. Senator Wheeler seems to have. They all learned of it after the marines had landed and the new outpost, only 635 miles from German occupied Norway, was in American hands.

Mr. Roosevelt has not only sent an expeditionary force out of the hemisphere, but apparently he has made a treaty with another sovereign nation, small but sovereign, and he has not asked the advice and consent of congress. Hermann Jonasson, prime minister of Iceland, in consenting to the American occupation, made eight stipulations, and Mr. Roosevelt accepted them all.

By these agreements the United States undertakes to keep a sufficient force in Iceland for the duration of the war, to respect the independent sovereignty of this little nation, and to retire as soon as the purposes of defense have been accomplished.

Without the advice and consent of the senate, Mr. Roosevelt has made a treaty. He didn't ask for its ratification, and in a short message he told congress of what he had done. According to Prime Minister Mackenzie King, the Canadian government knew of the intended movement a week ago. He said that British and Canadian troops stationed on the island had been removed and that the American naval force in Iceland was very large. On that point the American people have no information.

If the American government were to be trusted in the single purpose of defending the United States, the occupation of Iceland might be viewed in that light. What Mr. Roosevelt does, however, must be viewed in the light of his determination to get into the war as soon as possible and to make his approaches by avoiding congress and by-passing American public opinion. He has no more use for congress than any of the dictators for their farcical parliaments.

His methods have become familiar. A new act is put in rehearsal without an indication of what it will be but with portents which can be read. His proxy voices dwell upon the note of imminent peril and when they have prepared the way, or when it is thought that they have, Mr. Roosevelt appears with a speech which sounds anew the note of alarm. The people then should know that another step will be taken without consultation with the legislative branch.

The British government was aware, of course, of what Mr. Roosevelt meant by his short and seemingly irrelevant Fourth of July speech. The American people wondered why so much preliminary stress had been laid upon this utterance and why all the airways were cleared for it. The British knew that the occupation of Iceland was coming. They assumed, and Americans must be prepared to discover, that the military consequence is the taking over of convoying in at least two-thirds of the Atlantic ocean.

Mr. Roosevelt has now moved up to the very doorstep of the war. He has American forces within the European war zone. He has sent out an expeditionary force which is 2,700 miles from New York and little more than 600 miles from German guns, and within easy range of German air and sea forces. He has not done this for the protection of the United States or for the defense of the western hemisphere. He has done it because Iceland is territory close to the war operations. He undoubtedly thought he could occupy it without seeming to totally discredit his promises to the people. The appearance of a landing on a battle front might be avoided.

A landing is made on a battle front when American forces take over lines occupied by British troops in the war zone. Mr. Roosevelt knows that, and he knows that he is much closer to his ultimate goal in Iceland than he has been heretofore at any place. By acting as commander in chief, with assumptions of power which entirely outflank the constitutional limitations and the prerogatives of congress, he edges closer and closer to the firing line. The British naturally think their fighting ally is now in the war. He has taken over part of the line. Subsequent orders may send the air force, the navy, and an army expeditionary force almost anywhere, and the country will not know it until the movement has been completed.

ARMS FACTORIES AT THE FRONT.

Figures recently published by the defense commission show where the government has placed its orders for defense materials. In the year since rearmament was started, from June 1, 1940, to May 31, 1941, contracts totaling 12 billion dollars were let. The leading source of defense materials is New Jersey, which is followed closely by California and New York. Sixty-two per cent of our weapons and munitions are being produced in the seaboard states.

Another tabulation of the commission shows the contracts let in each industrial area. Following are the 11 top ranking city areas, and the amounts of defense contracts placed in each:

Newark-Jersey City	$821,921,000
Los Angeles	650,530,000
Boston	616,553,000
Detroit	554,120,000
Camden	526,549,000
Norfolk-Newport News	421,515,000
Seattle-Tacoma	415,222,000
New York City	408,055,000
Philadelphia	380,022,000
San Francisco-Oakland	347,600,000
Baltimore	294,768,000

All of these, with one exception, are frontier cities.

Ever since the program started, criticism has been leveled at the practice of concentrating defense orders in places, which would be accessible to bombers, if there should be any which could reach our shores. To this criticism the government replied that most of these first contracts are for ships, and you cannot build ships on the prairies in the interior of the country. That explanation is no longer sound, for the tabulations show that nearly 50 per cent of the prime defense contracts other than for ship construction and equipment have been let in the states lying on the periphery of the country.

If there is any section of the country which is open to attack by an enemy, it is the seaboard. To be safe beyond any question, the sources of our defense utensils should be well into the interior of the country. Failure to take similar precautions was one of the reasons for the downfall of France. If the Russians are able to hold out, it will be because they draw their military supplies, chiefly from factories located far to the east of Leningrad and Moscow. The concentration of armament contracts in the frontier of this country, indicates either that this country is not in the slightest danger of attack, and that La Guardia's talk about civilian defense is the bunk or that there is great stupidity at Washington.

ONE TRACTION PROBLEM AT A TIME.

The city council has passed a traction ordinance on the assumption that the surface and elevated lines will be merged and that the new company will find 102 million dollars for a program of modernization.

So far as the bondholders in the various surface lines are concerned, this settlement has now been declared either wholly unsatisfactory or only conditionally satisfactory. Mr. Albert Harris, speaking for the owners of the underlying bonds in the north and west side street car lines, says the plan is unacceptable because the earnings of the new company will be inadequate and it will quickly be overtaken by bankruptcy. The spokesmen for the owners of the underlying bonds in the south side lines say they will accept the plan provided a substantial amount of new money can be obtained and provided that their interest receives half the face value of its bonds in cash and the other half in bonds of the new company.

From these statements it appears that the prospects for acceptance of the settlement are anything but bright. It would be a mistake, however, to conclude that the situation has deteriorated. The fact is that the attitude of the bondholders was well known before the ordinance was presented to the council; the latest statements are merely a repetition of previous declarations. We are just where we were. The relatively solvent surface lines are unwilling to take on the hopelessly bankrupt elevated unless they have assurance that enough new money will be available to rehabilitate the system.

It seems to be generally believed that the legal position of the surface lines bondholders is strong, as those who drafted the 1907 ordinance intended it to be. If so, the bondholders can veto the settlement outlined in the ordinance. Demagogs may accuse them of selfishly preventing the community from having better transportation. This accusation will receive little support among those who have studied the traction problem, for the investment represented by these bonds gave Chicago the only substantial improvement it has had in local transportation in more than 30 years. If any interest is entitled to fair treatment it is these investors.

It is to be hoped that the negotiations with the federal lending agencies will be speeded with a view to discovering exactly what sums will be lent and on what terms. If adequate sums of new money can be obtained, perhaps the settlement can still be arranged. If not, the sooner the surface lines are discharged from the receivership, the better. The surface lines have a fair record of earnings and, if memory serves, something like 25 millions in cash available for rehabilitation. That is a lot of money and it can buy a lot of modern cars and buses.

The problem of the elevated, of course, will remain for solution and it is a tough one. A huge amount of money is needed to rehabilitate the system and it is far from certain that the investment will yield a return. About a quarter of a million Chicagoans use the elevated daily. If the properties were to be sold as junk these people would be inconvenienced and the community would suffer. More than that, the city has sunk the traction fund in the construction of subways for the use of the elevated lines.

Everybody would have reason to rejoice if all of Chicago's transportation problems could be solved at one blow as the recently adopted ordinance intends, but the attitude of the surface lines bondholders suggests that no such easy way out of the difficulties may be feasible. If adequate loans are not forthcoming, perhaps the best way out is the discharge of the surface lines from receivership and then attempt to rehabilitate the elevated. Nobody knows how this can be done, but it is doubtful if any good will be served by delaying the modernization of the surface lines until a means of rescue for the elevated lines can be found.

Editorial of the Day

THE BEETLES ARE HERE.

[Baltimore Evening Sun.]

The Japanese beetles are here again. They're "buzzing around the parks," according to one report, which ignores the fact that Japanese beetles don't buzz—possibly because they're too busy eating roses, grapevines, tree leaves, and decorative vines, and too busy propagating their loathesome species. The usual trap method of "beetle control" is advocated. While it is to be hoped that every one will trap as many as possible, we find some encouragement in the fact that attention will again be given to the lethal properties of Hogarth's bush.

Hogarth's bush [identified as a dwarf chestnut shrub] was first noted by John Hogarth, head gardener at Clifton park. Beetles were attracted to its foliage, and the foliage killed them by the bushel. Since the professional entomologists still are far from having the beetles well in hand, if hand's the word, despite the importation of a Japanese wasp that preys upon beetles, and despite the use of a disease spore that destroys the beetle grubs in lawns, no possible enemy of the invaders should be overlooked. Every gardener, professional or amateur, should keep on the watch.

Certainly the outlook isn't quite as bad as it was a few seasons ago when traps weren't as effective as now and the disease spore dust wasn't available for general use. But the outlook isn't bright by a long way. Meanwhile a report comes from Hobart, Okla., of a new bug that eats okra. People who delight in chicken gumbo will be horrified; but there will be plenty of nonokra eaters, perhaps a majority, who will be even more horrified; because, they will argue, a bug that will eat "that mess" [okra] will eat anything; truly an alarming thought.

LINES FROM A LOGBOOK.

These things flash vividly upon the screen of memory as the Linemaster returns reluctantly to his mailbag and typewriter:

The Will Rogers Memorial museum at Claremore, Okla., high on a prairie hill, nobly designed, with a granite tomb before its portal, empty now but waiting for the cowboy comedian to come home to the range. . . . A rain, hail and windstorm on the New Mexico uplands that wanted to tear the car off the highway. . . . Santa Fe, fostering the cult of adobe architecture and scrupulously living in its Mexican past.

A wisecrack on the brink of the inexpressible Grand canyon: "It lacks the element of surprise." . . . The red doorway to Bryce canyon in the setting sun. . . . A small herd of buffalo, loose on the sagebrush north of the Kaibab forest and blocking the road like ordinary kine. . . . A flat tire on a bad turn, rolling down into Zion canyon.

Las Vegas, where gambling is a public utility. . . . Night riding across the Mojave desert, uncomfortably cool. . . . The ski-pants palm trees of Los Angeles, ugly enough to cause a tree worshiper to renounce his faith. . . . Hollywood, of course, and Maria Montez, new to every one except the Universal Pictures staff, a prize blonde from the Canary Islands.

A reunion in the movie zone of three old cavaliers of the Boule Mich—steaks broiled in the garden, a jug of rum, a flagon of Burgundy, and much lifting of rosy goblets high until after midnight. . . . Missions along the trail to San Francisco; seals, sea lions, pelicans and cormorants on the rocks off Carmel. . . . A killed engine on the steep slant of Russian Hill in San Francisco, and the hair-raising process of backing the car down on the brakes.

The Mediterranean blue of Lake Tahoe, with the high, snowy Sierras for background. . . . First view of the Great Salt Lake desert around the shoulder of a Nevada hill, like a landscape in the moon, white as a sun-bleached bone.

And so we go back to work again.

You can take this story for what it is worth. It seems that Hitler has a special "ersatz" food he likes above all others, and it is made from wood. They say it is so woody you don't dare stand still if you eat an overdose for fear of taking root.

One day after a sumptuous meal of it Hitler was strolling thru his gardens when he was suddenly attacked by woodpeckers. Only the quick action of his guards saved him from being bored. So it is now high treason not to report the presence of a woodpecker in the district.

THE RIDICULOUS RHINOCEROS.

(A Brookfield Ballad.)

The rhino is, to say the least,
A ludicrous and clumsy beast.
He's large and massive, but you'll find
He hasn't much to use for mind,
For when he's been disquieted
He charges blindly, straight ahead,
And hopes the horn built on his snout
Will put his enemies to rout;
But they (most times) just step aside
And watch him crash to suicide.
So, little ones, take this for text,
Don't lose your temper when you're vexed.

HEALTH IN THE SCHOOL PROGRAM.

LET us take stock and calculate the advantages gained by our youngsters during the 10 or more years which they spend in school. Of course, they have made considerable progress in book learning, but have they emerged with strong bodies and a rational outlook on life?

We have great faith in the units of our educational system, but we must insist that the physical stamina of the product shall guarantee vigor for the adult years. This means that we must protect the child from infection and contagion during the hours when he is in class or on the playground. In addition, we must provide adequate instruction so that good hygiene will be inculcated. Each pupil must know enough about disease to avoid it. In other words, he may become health conscious with the full knowledge that such and such a type of behavior may influence his future favorably, while a plan which is quite different may warp it adversely.

Furthermore, we may well make the school responsible for an athletic schedule which will develop muscles, augment the sense of fair play, and teach forbearance—give and take. Hit and miss projects will not suffice, and a national movement in this direction is essential, despite the fact that such efforts today are integral parts of many institutions. In other words, we can make well being one of the cardinal objectives of education, which means that—in some circumstances—the emphasis on the topic may need to be intensified a hundredfold.

Altho some districts now possess remarkably well developed courses, including practical instruction, nevertheless the subject will be found lacking or be allotted but a minor place—all too frequently. It is significant that the National Education association has called attention repeatedly to the importance of robust teachers as well as sturdy pupils. The instructor who is alert and vigorous is far more capable than the one who is anemic or suffering from some chronic ailment.

What has been accomplished in the Des Moines [Iowa] system is well worth careful study. Because of the concentrated efforts of the teachers of that city, wholesome habits among children have been established and enough instruction has been given to save many a bout with an infection.

It is high time that we use our schools as great public laboratories for preventive medicine. But, how can we do it? Perhaps we have already reached the limit of the tax levy and the annual budget cannot be increased. Fortunately, the machinery need not be elaborate. It will demand a few nurses, a medical counselor, and the enthusiastic support of a small group of trained experts in physical education.

The subject is so vital to the man power of the nation—the future happiness and well being of our citizens—that we may well consider its relative value as contrasted with certain other activities. Without boosting the total expense it may be that pet educational foibles—not nearly so significant—can make way for this indispensable program.

What will it accomplish? Fewer days lost from school, better sanitation, a decline in the death rate in the active years of life, and a manifold gain in happiness and the will to do. It has been proved beyond question that the stature of our boys and girls will be greater and, with early attention particularly to the mouth and throat, we will reduce appreciably the incidence of rheumatism and heart disease.

INFECTED SINUS.

J. B. writes: If a person has infected sinuses, are symptoms present all the time or only when one has a cold?

REPLY.

More obvious when an acute illness comes along. If bacteria are actually growing within the bony spaces, the important thing is to provide adequate drainage. With free exit of pus there need be but little absorption—and hence, danger to health. However, one does not relish the idea that toxins are being manufactured within the skull. With more outdoor activity and freedom from dust the trouble may be relieved.

NOISY CHEST.

L. J. V. writes: What is meant by "rales in the left upper lobe"?

REPLY.

Rales are abnormal chest sounds. They mean little or mush, depending upon location and type. Without supporting evidence, "rattles" of many varieties may be disregarded. If tuberculosis is suspected, an X-ray film of the lungs will supply positive information.

Test Your Horse Sense

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 26.

1. The phrase "The Lady of the Lamp" usually refers to a woman employed as a Stenographer Governess Missionary Nurse.
2. A person who is "behind the eight ball" is probably In Luck Newly Married In Trouble A Billiard Player.
3. A group of new born pigs is usually referred to as a Covey Herd Drove Litter.
4. Which one of these workmen would most likely use a micrometer? Machinist Painter Auto Racer Electrician.
5. If you visited a college classroom and found most of the students "in the arms of Morpheus," it would mean the professor was a Poet Dynamic Orator Musician Poor Speaker.
6. The Presidents of the United States have been selected from a variety of occupations. Try to match the five listed below with the business or professional fields in which they were engaged. You deserve one point for each correct judgment.

[a] Theodore Roosevelt	[v] Lawyer
[b] Warren G. Harding	[w] Author
[c] Herbert Hoover	[x] College professor
[d] Woodrow Wilson	[y] Newspaper publisher
[e] Calvin Coolidge	[z] Engineer

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

STALIN'S KAMPF.

Oakland, Cal., July 7.—Some day the United States of America is going to wake up to the humiliating fact that it has been the victim of the most monstrous hoax ever planned against a nation. We have heard much about Hitler's book, "Mein Kampf." It is well also to consider the equally egregious "Stalin's Kampf"—a compilation of his writings published in this country about a year ago. In this book Stalin makes the remarkable statement, "To choose one's victim, to prepare one's plans minutely, to slake an implacable vengeance and then to go to bed. . . . There is nothing sweeter in the world."

Included also is Stalin's assertion of 1929: "I think the moment is not far off when a revolutionary crisis will develop in America, and when a revolutionary crisis develops in America, that will be the beginning of the end of world capitalism as a whole. The American communist party should be capable of meeting that historical moment fully prepared."

But Britain claims that the union, for defense, with Red Russia is merely "a marriage of convenience" [with Uncle Sam as best man]—a partnership that would promptly be annulled with the expiration of the war!

C. JEWELL PARISH.

OLD DEFINITION OF A TORY.

Chicago, July 4.—The other day I saw a clipping from a very old newspaper, the Evening Post of Madison, Wis., published in 1850. Enclosed find a copy of it. I think it is just as true now as it was then. It follows:

"At a dinner party given in 1775 a gentleman of considerable notoriety as a wit was asked:

"'Pray, what is a Tory?'

"He replied: 'A Tory is a creature whose head is in England while his body is in America, and I think the two parts ought to be joined by stretching the neck.'

"We have still persons among us not unlike this description of the Tory, whose heads are in Richmond, Va., while their bodies are in New York, and tho we might not recommend the old revolutionary wit's plan of bringing the two parts together by stretching the intervening membranes, we should certainly not object to seeing the body sent where the head is."

C. R. CULLINGWORTH.

UNANIMOUS, AND MORE.

Olney, Ill., July 7.—Every day I see where newspapers and others are taking polls on controversial subjects.

I have just taken a poll. I asked 100 people the following question: "Do you favor the retention of our present secretary of labor?" Twenty-five simply answered "No"; 50 said "Hell, no"; the other 25 answered "No, no, a thousand times no."

I challenge Gallup himself to frame a question that will bring a better percentage than that.

G. H. VAN CLEVE.

AN AMERICAN POLICY.

Chicago, July 2.—Congratulations on your consistent American policy. Keep it up. It is like the rock of Gibraltar to our overtaxed American citizens—victims of the Anglo-communist double-deal administration. The recent William Grace polls proved that the people are 97 per cent against war. The America First and your own polls back it up.

MRS. C. WILSON.

CHURCH AND STATE.

Chicago, July 3.—Upon reading the letter in yesterday's TRIBUNE, "Religion in the Schools," from Civil Liberties Committee, I reread, from THE TRIBUNE of Sept. 25, 1876, the memorable address upon this subject by Dr. W. W. Patton.

It was delivered in Farwell hall before a great audience at a time when this subject was under vigorous discussion. THE TRIBUNE gave six full columns of six point type to Dr. Patton's address! It rewards any one's reading today, if only for its historical review of the whole question, and its citation of the treaty with Tripoli of 1796, and the experience of Lyman Beecher in attacking this problem of the separation of state and church.

Perhaps Dr. Patton needs to be identified to the present generation of Chicagoans. He was the pastor of the First Congregational church, and when citizens of Chicago sent a delegation early in the war to discuss the question of emancipation with President Lincoln, Dr. Patton was chairman and spokesman. With Dr. Ralph Isham, he was first back of the Union lines after the battle of Shiloh with hospital supplies from Chicago—the first volunteers of aid where conditions had become unspeakable. All thru the war these two moving spirits in the sanitary commission performed services of incalculable value.

In his comprehension of "civil liberties," I surmise that Dr. Patton would regard the protest of the present Civil Liberties Committee, as it appears in yesterday's TRIBUNE, as a weak and almost colorless statement of the case.

LEWIS EDWIN MYERS.

ODE TO LINDBERGH—PATRIOT.

Chicago, July 5.—

A patriot am I
And proudly I would die
For America,
Land of the free.
But I do not want to go
To fight against a foe
A thousand leagues across the sea.

When men in vain have fought
And mass destruction wrought
Thru the centuries of old;
Where Death a bivouac keeps
And unknown soldiers sleep,
Where the tyrannies of war again unfold.

A patriot am I
And proudly I would die
For America
At her command.
But I do not want to go
To fight against a foe
Over there in a foreign land.

SHUT OUT FROM PENSIONS.

Waukegan, Ill., July 6.—Would you publish this letter to let the Chicago public know what an injustice has been done to some of the old and faithful employés of the Chicago Surface Lines. The mayor specified that any of the old employés who had to quit work while the new franchise and a pension system was pending, would get temporary assistance until a pension was given and then share in the pension. Now they are shut out entirely and assistance stopped. Some of those old men had the greater part of their life savings invested in these defaulted bonds, and now are nearly penniless, and instead of enjoying the last two or three years that most of them would have to live in a little comfort, they will have to live in misery. I think it is a cruel injustice.

ONE OF THEM.

THEY MAY NOT COME AGAIN.

En Route Back to Texas, July 4.—A short visit in Chicago, supposed to be the hubcap of northern hospitality, makes the members of our party more certain that the grand old states south of the Mason-Dixon line are God's country.

Apropos all this hullabaloo about the Jim Crow law: We ate a picnic in Lincoln park today; rode street cars to and from, and take it from us, with the exception of the police Chicago should have its own Jim Crow law. Nobody cares about anybody, or gives correct directions, or is even polite, except the policemen.

Texas, here we come back home.

CALDWELL UNION GAVE ME NO AID, CLERK TESTIFIES

Salary Dropped After He Joined, He Asserts.

A member of the Retail Clerks' International Protective association, local 1248, which has 5,300 Chicago members, testified yesterday that membership had brought him no benefits. He appeared in the action brought by members of the rank and file to force an accounting of an estimated $910,000 in dues and fees from suspended officials of the union.

The witness told Master in Chancery Daniel Covelli of the Circuit court that his salary had been reruced from $27 to $22 a week since he joined the union. He testified he was compelled to pay $2 a month in dues and that each year he was forced to buy $2 worth of tickets for a dance to finance a hospitalization plan which never was proved to exist.

Testifies Against Caldwell.

The witness, Saul Schaps, 30 years old, an employé of a Hillman food store for nine years, charged that Max Caldwell, who as business manager was said to have been czar of the union for five years, never gave any of the 5,300 members a voice in the union's affairs.

Caldwell, unmasked last month under his true identity as Max Pollack, a friend of the old Capone gang and a convicted criminal who was sentenced to six months on the Indiana state prison farm for a liquor law violation but who apparently never served his term, never submitted any accounting of collections to the members, Schaps testified.

"Dues at first were $1.50 a month," Schaps said. "Later they were raised to $2. The membership was never asked even to approve the increase."

Tells of "Elections."

"Were you ever notified when union general elections would be held?" asked Attorney Francis Heisler, who represents the insurgent members who are seeking the accounting and the ouster of Caldwell and eight other union officers.

"I would receive postcards on Monday notifying me that an election was to be held on Sunday," Schaps replied.

Last June 7, Schaps stated, he and 600 other members met in protest in the Hamilton hotel and decided on a campaign for new union leadership.

"Squeezed" Into Union, He Says.

Schaps said the 600 employés of the Hillman stores were driven into the union by a "squeeze play."

"We were called to a meeting by Caldwell," Schaps related. "He told us he had signed a contract with Hillman's, altho the employés there were not organized into a union, and that we all would have to join.

"The next day I saw Caldwell's brother, Mike Pollack, recording secretary of the union, and he told me I had to join. I then saw Herbert Loeb, an official of Hillman's. He said, 'You'll have to join the union.' I held out for 10 or 12 days and then joined."

John Van Vaerenewyck, general organizer for the American Federation of Labor, who was authorized by William Green, federation president, to take over affairs of the union after suspending its officers, testified that he failed to find a single record in a search of union headquarters at 400 South State street.

Records Ordered Brought In.

Master Covelli directed him to obtain all records bearing on union affairs which are filed at international headquarters in Lafayette, Ind., especially monthly reports on membership and dues collections which Caldwell was supposed to forward there.

Covelli also issued subpenas for Caldwell, Mike Pollack, and Mike Savachka, financial secretary, but they have not been served so far.

Meanwhile, local 1397, representing west suburban clerks, voted to withdraw from the international and affiliate with an independent union, the Wholesale and Retail Employés' Union of America. The local also reduced its monthly dues to $1.

DOCTOR CHARGED WITH MURDER IN ABORTION DEATH

Young Mother of Two Dies in His Office.

The state's attorney's office placed a charge of murder by abortion yesterday against Dr. Nathaniel H. Schaffner, 53 years old, in whose office at 4009 Lincoln avenue a young woman died Monday afternoon. The victim, who allegedly underwent an illegal operation by the physician, was Mrs. Emma Laisure, 27 years old, 6144 North Hoyne avenue, mother of two children.

Dr. Schaffner denied that any operation was performed. He admitted that Mrs. Laisure's death occurred in the office and that he kept her body there until midnight, when he returned it to the family home. He attributed the death to heart disease, but Assistant State's Attorney Julius Sherwin asserted a post mortem examination showed that the real cause was the operation.

Two Terms in Leavenworth.

A police record stated that Dr. Schaffner had served two terms in the Leavenworth federal prison for violating the Harrison anti-narcotic laws. He was first committed there in 1918 and served 19 months. The second commitment with sentences of two and three years running consecutively, was in January, 1933.

Interested in License.

Prosecutor Sherwin said he was interested in learning how the physician obtained a license to practice medicine after his prison terms had been served. Records in the Chicago office of the state department of registration and education showed that the Schaffner license was revoked after he had been arrested on the second narcotics charge in October, 1932, and that his petition for a restoration of the right to practice was granted in March, 1935.

Earl G. Laisure, a taxicab driver and the husband of Mrs. Laisure, told the police that he was in an outer office when the operation was performed. He added that the physician told him to tell no one what had happened to his wife and that he would pay all funeral expenses.

ANNENBERG DENIED PAROLE; MUST SERVE UNTIL NOV. 11, 1942

Washington, D. C., July 8 (AP).—M. L. Annenberg, Philadelphia publisher serving a 3 year term for income tax evasion, has been denied a parole, justice department officials said today.

Annenberg would have been eligible for parole July 21. He now stands little chance of being released before Nov. 11, 1942, when his term expires with allowance for good behavior.

In addition to his three year sentence, which he is serving at Lewisburg, Pa., federal penitentiary, Annenberg was ordered to pay fines and back taxes amounting to 8 million dollars, which with interest amounted to around 11 millions.

DROP ELECTION FRAUD CHARGES AGAINST VINCI

Election fraud charges against Joseph Vinci, Democratic captain of the 52d precinct, 11th ward, were dismissed yesterday before Judge William V. Brothers in Criminal court.

Assistant State's Attorney Richard B. Austin requested the dismissal, with leave to reinstate, because the appeal of Sam Orlando, convicted in a separate trial on similar evidence, is now pending before the state Supreme court. It was learned, however, that the state's star witness, Harry L. Beck, has been indicted on a sex charge and will appear in Criminal court July 22.

Charges against Vinci and Orlando involved ballot box stuffing in the 1939 judicial election. Both were acquitted twice, but retried on the state's contention that a "jury fix" was responsible for the first acquittal.

AFL UNION HALTS WORK IN PROTEST AT CIO REHIRINGS

Four hundred members of the United Garment Workers union [AFL] stopped work yesterday in the Reliance Manufacturing company plant in Michigan City, Ind., as a protest against the restoration of 30 CIO union members, who had been on strike two months, to their jobs. Production in the plant, which makes men's underwear, was halted from 10:30 a. m. until 4 p. m., the regular quitting time.

Madge King, representative of the AFL union, said that its members would go into the factory again today but would not say whether they intended to work. The CIO union called a strike late in April, but the unorganized workers marched to work under police protection and formed their AFL local later.

Officials of the company said yesterday that a mediator from the Indiana department of labor had been asked to straighten out the new trouble.

3 New Novels, Each Tops in Entertainment

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

This week kind hearted publishers have given us three sure-fire novels to make us forget the state of the world and our own troubles, a sort of post-Independence day soother for the long week-end's strenuousness. Get your nose into any one of the three and you're static until the last page is ended, and rejuvenated, too, because you'll be so excited over their contents that the usual tensions will just plain disappear. They're escape literature de luxe.

Witty Conversation

Katharine Brush's "You Go Your Way" is a story of a marriage that didn't work and of the hectic effort which the wife made to bring it back to its original form. In the bare outline that's what it is. But it has as cuckoo a gal for heroine as you've run across in our day of cuckoo characters, and a hero who, you feel, would have wound up the whole situation properly about page 39 with one firm putting down of a good hard palm on the destined spanking area.

Katharine Brush.

But "You Go Your Way" isn't memorable for its plot, but for its conversation, which is hilarious, nutty, exciting, and more engaging than any you've almost ever run across. You all must honestly admit that two people very much in love can be pretty funny on their own [funny and sweet and sad!], but when they have Katharine Brush to give them cues they can be, and are, hilarious.

There's nothing important about this froth, and yet it's the sort of thing that a discerning doctor would prescribe for any case, of either the body or the soul flat on its back or ambulatory-and trying to do a good day's work in a mad world. It's tops in entertainment, and as sure a painkiller as the regular laughing gas. Katharine Brush here does superbly what she does best, which is to wring a laugh out of what for many writers would be a turnip.

"You Go Your Way" was sold to the movies before it was published. Claudette Colbert will be Connie, the cake-eater.

Adventure Thriller

"Above Suspicion" is a thriller in the "Escape" pattern. Its locale is Nazi Germany, its hero and heroine a young Oxford don and his wife who undertake a secret mission to find an agent who has suspiciously not been heard from. As ordinary curious tourists they go about their work, but before long they mix with the Gestapo, and the results are pretty nearly not pretty. Hair-raising events cumulate, as they did in "Escape," and the reader leaps, like a Swiss mountain goat from his crag to crag, thru the pages of their terrifying adventures.

Writes a Thriller

A Barrel of Fun

The fantastic combination of a highly estimable and meticulous mathematical wizard of a young man who is an actuary in a life insurance company and the gaga life of a carnival show, "Acres of Fun," is the highly seasoned literary ragout which another new writer, George Malcolm-Smith, offers his readers.

His publishers point out that altho "Slightly Perfect" is "in the direct tradition of Thorne Smith's happiest stories," George Malcolm-Smith is no relation to that barreler of fun. Mr. G. M.-S. sticks much closer to the physical probabilities than did his [no relation] forebear. He is not funnier than Thorne Smith, but neither is he louder.

The hero is bold in the use of his mathematical genius brain, but otherwise is shy and circumspect—except for one evening's bout with the bottle and Miss Bunny LaFleur, who declares that her "existence has been what you might call hip-hazard," and whom Milton Northey Haskins, late actuary of the Nutmeg Insurance company, characteristically describes to himself as one who "would most assuredly be rated as a case of excellent tangible assets and substantial reserves."

It's all good clean fun, tho, and quite accidentally our hero, with the help of his pretty young secretary, who tracks him to his hideout in the carnival, solves a mystery and all is very well thereafter.

"Slightly Perfect" also lives up to its title.

Humor Is Both Keen and Kindly in This Family Portraiture

"My Dear Bella," by Arthur Kober. [Random House, $2.]

This is more than just a funny book about the Gross family, altho it's certainly that. It also is an accurate record of how the Bronx reacts to life and its problems.

It tells of the arguments between Pa [Mr. Nuzz-in-Paper] and Ma [Mrs. Victrolleh], of Ma's sadness because Bella is still unmarried. It describes Pa's horror when the barber shaves off his cherished mustache, his unwelcome attendance when Bella's club meets in the Gross parlor. It repeats Bella's formal letter in which she gives "Dear Monroe Rosenblatt" back to the Indians, and tells in all their pomp and ceremony the doings of the Excelsior Social club.

These and other diverting episodes give Mr. Kober the chance to demonstrate that his ear for what amounts almost to another language still is infallible, that his humor is both keen and kindly, and that the Bronx is like no other place on earth. R. C.

For 27 years he was engrossed in the study of the short story, and the 1941 group is typical of his collections. Besides 29 pieces of fiction, it contains a list of articles on the short story in American periodicals, an index of volumes of tales published here and in Canada, a list of the best books of short stories of 1940, and biographical notices.

Among the most arresting of the tales is Felicia Gizycka's "The Magic Wire," which depends for its force and suspense upon laconic, terse narration. As a character sketch, Erskine Caldwell's "Handy" is unforgettable.

There are several grim tales of the farmer and his struggles. Mary King's Texas tragedy, "The White Bull," is one, and Wallace Stegner's "Goin' to Town" is another.

One of William Saroyan's delightful tales about children, "The Three Swimmers and the Educated Grocer," vies in interest with John Fante's narrative, "A Nun No More," told from a child's viewpoint. Other well known writers represented are William Faulkner, Stephen Vincent Benet, Richard Wright, and Christopher La Farge.

The title story in the collection of tales by Elizabeth Goudge is an imaginative account of an incident in the boyhood of Shelley, depicting the freeing of a caged bird that inspired his immortal poem to the skylark. In like manner, a little English lass tells of her friend, Will Shakespeare, and his romance with "the dark lady" of the sonnets.

Another poignant story is of Madame Ysabeau, as the great Queen Elizabeth was called when she was a poor little neglected daughter of a tyrannical and highly eccentric king. This tale is, perhaps, the most beautifully written in a collection that maintains a standard of high artistry.

THE SHOSHONES HEARKEN AGAIN TO GREAT SPIRIT

BY L. L. NEWTON.

Lander, Wyo., July 8 [Special].—Morgan Moon, medicine man of the Shoshone tribe, had a vision the other night, and the Great Spirit told him that the moon and the stars and all the good spirits of mountains and the plains and the sky said that the Shoshones should have a sun dance.

The sun smiled, the grass nodded, the east wind blew as Morgan Moon rose from the pallet in his tepee and looked toward the east. It was good, he said.

Following the will of the spirit and the waxing of the moon, the date came at once to his mind. "It shall be Friday, the 25th of July, when we shall go into the pavilion," he said.

He Builds a Fire.

The Indian built a small fire, as has been the custom of the red man for centuries. He warmed his hands over the blaze, and his nostrils caught the smoke of the sage.

Telling his tribesmen that they should go to the forest well in advance of July 25 to find the center or Diety pole, and reciting to them the ceremonies which attend that preliminary to the sun dance, the ancient medicine man called upon the young warriors "to come and dance three days and three nights without food or water, that our sick may be well and share in the blessings which have come from the sun and the abundant harvest it brings."

The Council Meets.

The next day the council met at the council house at Fort Washakie, on the Indian reservation north of Lander. Cyrus Shon-gut-sie, chief of the dance committee, spoke for his group of five fullbloods. Charles [Dee] Driskoll of the business council said it met with the plans for reservation operation. Forrest R. Stone, superintendent, said the date was just right. All were in agreement. The pipe was passed around, and all smoked in silence.

Thus you have the 1941 dates of this notable religious ceremony of the Shoshone tribe, a stellar attraction for travelers in Wyoming.

Hesitation

About to take his first dip in the surf at Atlantic City, N. J., this youngster seemingly is not too certain of the prospects.

Lana Turner New Queen of Mountain Top Rodeo

Estes Park, Col., July 8 [Special].—The cowboys of Rocky Mountain National park have named Lana Turner of the movies as honorary queen of the world's highest rodeo, called America's Rooftop roundup, to be held here Aug. 9 and 10.

STEAMSHIP LINE CARRIES MORE TO SOUTH AMERICA

New York, July 8 [Special].—Passenger traffic on the ships of the Moore-McCormack Lines, plying between this country and Brazil, Argentina, and Uruguay, showed a 14 per cent increase the first six months of this year over the corresponding period of last year.

In the first half of 1940 the company carried 9,413 passengers. In the first half of 1941 the figure was 10,758.

Robert C. Lee, executive vice president, said today that a similar increase was expected for the rest of the year, and that pleasure travel would account for nearly one-fourth of the total.

CHICAGO ANGLERS GET BIG CATCHES IN NORTH LAKES

Pike, Bass, and Muskies All Striking Hard.

BY BOB BECKER.

This may be a quiet, restful summer for thousands of Chicagoans on vacations, but for the muskies, bass, and pike in the northern lake region it's a pretty busy season. From many parts of the vacation country come reports of how sportsmen are fooling the fish with all kinds of lures. When the fun is over the fish are on their way to the icehouse, with their final destination Chicagoland.

Anglers are finding some large walleyes this year. Hokan Carlson of 1521 Foster avenue boated two dandies in Buckatoban lake, near Eagle River, in Vilas county, Wisconsin. Using an artificial lure known as the bass-oreno, he first caught a 6 pound 11½ ounce walleye and then he put a 7 pound 7 ounce specimen on his stringer.

Best Sport in Years.

For a while the muskies and pike were on a regular hitting spree in many of the Wisconsin lakes, with the result that Chicagoans had some of their best sport in years. When we were at Hayward the boys were still talking about one party that saw 32 muskies in one day, caught seven, and kept two—one of them weighing 14 pounds and the other 17.

Lower Twin lake was the scene of these catches. Now a part of comparatively new flowage, it is growing a new "crop" of muskies and bass. While using a fly rod on this flowage one evening we caught baby muskies, crappies, small walleyes, and a dozen 10 inch bass.

John Schommer, football official, has given a good picture of how the fish are behaving around Boulder Junction, Wis. He writes that an 8¾ pound walleye has been landed in Little Bear lake. Mrs. Schommer and he found the bass hitting in Lynx lake, and he caught one muskellunge every day.

A High Score.

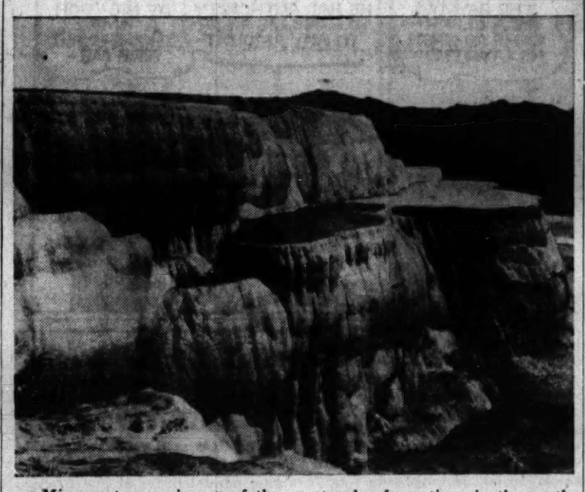
Schommer's score on muskies [an example of how they have been hitting] was: Two from Wolf lake [8 and 14 pounds], one from Wildcat lake [11 pounds], and one in Little Bear lake [11 pounds]. The pike also have been biting in Wolf lake, altho Schommer says he connected with no big ones.

Chicagoans also have been busy along the Minnesota boundary. Ray Fowler, advertising executive, hit the jackpot when he visited Vera lake, out from Ely. Walter Berger writes that Fowler came home with a string of bass that averaged 3 pounds. The largest weighed 5½.

Charles W. Lelivelt of 838 Elgin avenue, Forest Park, and his son caught the best string of walleyes from Moose lake that has been seen in many a day.

Hundreds of sportsmen are reaching wilderness areas in the Minnesota boundary country by planes which drop down on rarely fished bass and walleye lakes. For these a new service is about to be started by Northwest Airlines. Under this arrangement it will be possible to leave Chicago early Friday morning and be at a lodge in the Superior National forest, north of Duluth, by noon.

At Mammoth Hot Springs



Minerva terrace is one of the spectacular formations in the northwestern part of Yellowstone National park. It is a succession of shelves built of travertine borne to the surface by the waters from the hot springs. Coloring is provided by living algae. [Haynes Photo.]

Three of us are hoping to go to Mexico late this summer, but one of our group is under the impression that we shall encounter extremely hot weather there. What are the facts regarding that country's climate? —D. W. D.

Many Americans have the idea that tropical temperatures are the rule in Mexico thruout the summer, but they forget the factor of altitude. While a large part of the country lies within the tropical zone, most visitors arrange their tours to include the Valley of Mexico. This usually means the use of Mexico City as the base for excursions to nearby urban and rural places of interest. As a result, the traveler finds himself at altitudes ranging from 4,000 to 8,000 feet. Mexico City itself is 7,349 feet above sea level. In the valley the air is relatively dry. During the day the thermometer climbs to levels equal to or above those of the temperate zone, but without the sultriness common to much of the United States. As a rule, the evenings are cool enough to require wraps, and the nights are cold enough to require blankets. The conditions in the valley are thus similar to those found in the American Rockies or the Adirondacks. In seaports such as Acapulco and Vera Cruz, of course, it is hot the year round.

INDIANA FARMERS JOIN FIGHT ON AAA QUOTA PENALTIES

Map Battle on Fines for Wheat Excesses.

BY GAIL COMPTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., July 8.—Charging that the government has broken faith with the nation's farmers, delegates representing more than 15,000 wheat growers met here tonight to map out a fight against the wheat marketing quotas.

Thirty farmers representing county organizations in every part of the state formally organized the National Marketing Quota Protest association for the avowed purpose of preventing the government from putting into effect the recently proclaimed penalty of 49 cents on each bushel of wheat grown in excess of given allotments.

The new association plans to contact similar organizations that have been springing up in other states in order that the farmers may find a voice strong enough to be heard in Washington.

Recalls Assurance Last Fall.

"Farmers were told by AAA officials last fall that there might be a penalty on excess wheat, but that it would be only 15 cents," Lamont O'Harra, temporary chairman of the organization, asserted. "Many of us decided to go ahead with our wheat program in spite of this so we could keep up our normal operations. We felt we could afford to pay the fine.

"Then after the crop was seeded, grown, and ready for harvest the government inflicts a ruinous 49 cent penalty on us."

Other association officials recited tales of unfair allotments and discrimination thruout the state. They said that the protest movement was backed not only by farmers who are being forced to pay the wheat penalty, but also by many who are not raising wheat or who voted "yes" in the 37 state referendum last May in which the marketing quotas on this year's wheat crop were adopted.

Charges It's a Punishment.

"The 49 cent penalty is more a means of punishing farmers who have not joined the farm program than it is a solution of the wheat surplus," O'Harra said. He charged that the referendum was handled solely by AAA appointees, and that dissenting farmers were not represented on the election boards.

Plans were made at today's meeting for a state-wide gathering of protesting farmers to be held soon.

"We will organize in every state down to each township," O'Harra said, "until we are strong enough to make our wishes felt in Washington."

Similar protest movements grew in other states. At Hillsboro, Ill., the Independent Grain Growers' association of Montgomery county prepared to file a suit in the United States Circuit court at Springfield, Ill., for an order to restrain collection of the wheat penalties. Oklahoma farmers joined wheat growers in Kansas and Missouri to fight the AAA program, and a federal court suit was filed at Oklahoma City to test the validity of the penalties. Protesting Ohio farmers sent delegates to Washington to demand a federal inquiry into complaints.

ROCKFORD MAN KILLED IN TRUCK AND AUTO CRASH

B. Axel Wilson, 58 years old, of Rockford, Ill., secretary treasurer of the Rockford Furniture company, was injured fatally last night when his automobile collided with a gasoline truck at the intersection of Mannheim and Higgins roads. He died in Northwestern hospital, Des Plaines. The truck driver, Ernest Schroder, 37, of Bensenville, was injured seriously. Herbert Stempel and James O'Donnell of the Morton Grove county highway police said Wilson apparently was driving west on highway 72. Mannheim road is a thru street at that point.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 485 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 348 were killed in Chicago, where 12,526 were injured in the same period.

Court Dismisses Charges Against 17 Ex-Strikers

George Barnes of the police labor detail told the court that the strike had been settled and the arrested employés, who had been discharged, are back at work.

BUILDING AGENTS UPSET BY 8% FEE ON STATE LEASES

A Realty Firm Official Explains Deals.

Downtown building agents were reported disconcerted yesterday over a new requirement that they pay an 8 per cent broker's fee on the renewal of leases for offices of the code departments of the state government.

Leo Hogan of Hogan and Farwell, realty brokerage firm which has obtained most of this business, said yesterday that so far they have handled state leases with annual rentals totaling about $150,000. The commissions on this amount would total $12,000.

Mr. Hogan indicated that he regards the lease commissions as relatively unimportant, expecting a much larger fee from the proposed purchase by the state of its own office building in Chicago. This commission could easily reach $300,000.

Price "Important Factor."

In this connection Mr. Hogan denied reports that a decision has been reached by state officials to buy the State Bank building at La Salle and Monroe streets. He said that in a final survey yet to be made perhaps ten buildings would be considered, with price an important factor "because the whole idea is to achieve economy."

Hogan explained his firm's relationship with the state administration's realty transactions in this way.

"We knew state leases would expire July 1, so we made a list of the offices from the telephone book. We went to the state department heads, got their requirements for redecorating and remodeling, and then went to the building agents. We said, 'The state will pay——dollars for a lease if you will do the following work,' and the agents agreed.

No Increases in Rent.

"All the work wanted was done at the expense of the buildings and there was not a single increase in rent."

Charles McKenna was employed to handle this business for the Hogan and Farwell firm, Hogan said.

A lease for the new department of public safety at 205 West Monroe street was the only one which was not a renewal, Hogan said. The commission on this $10,000 annual rental was $800 — the same rate as for renewals.

Hogan said that the department of labor, whose annual rentals in Chicago total $147,000, renewed its leases without his firm's assistance. The department is headed by Martin Durkin, a Democratic hold over.

19 ALIMONY ROW INMATES TO GET A HEARING TODAY

Nineteen husbands in the county jail's alimony row will go to court today. Those whose promises to start paying support money are most convincing will be freed. Fifteen of them, owing a total of $10,744, will be arraigned before Judge Rudolph F. Desort. Four go before Judge Joseph Sabath. All are serving six month sentences.

One man, a taxi cab driver, said his mistake was in not paying by money order so as to have a receipt. He added that "it's a woman's world." Another blamed his plight on the fact that his wife's lawyer has a part of his fee coming each month. A third said he fell down an alimony payments to his first wife when his second was having a baby.

About 10 others listened in silence while the 19 rehearsed their pleas. The 10 were sentenced by Judge Cornelius Harrington, who is not following the midsummer Circuit and Superior court custom of reviewing alimony prisoners just before the jurists go on vacation. Judge Harrington said such leniency is useless.

DRIVER IS FINED $100 FOR CRASH WITH FIRE TRUCK

John Spiess, 38 years old, 6759 South Halsted street, a machinist, was fined $100 on a reckless driving charge yesterday by Judge Justin F. McCarthy in Safety court. Three firemen were injured when an automobile driven by Spiess collided with a fire truck at Princeton avenue and 43d street April 4. Spiess said he is partially deaf and did not hear the fire siren.

Mike Miller, 20 years old, a gypsy who ended a 70 mile an hour police chase thru the south side Sunday by crashing against a tree at 76th street and Lafayette avenue, was fined $5 for reckless driving by Judge Lambert K. Hayes in Boys' court.

Reunion

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Myrtle Orosco and baby at St. Vincent's orphanage, where they were reunited.

Mrs. Leona Jarko, mother of six children, took prompt action yesterday when she found a crowd gathered around a crying infant in a go-cart at Western and North avenues. She wheeled the baby to her home at 1644 North Artesian avenue, telling bystanders to inform the mother if she showed up.

Two hours later, however, Mrs. Jarko phoned the West North avenue station to inform Desk Sergeant Eddie Balata of her find. Sergt. Balata asked her to keep the baby, a boy, 6 months old, until the mother reported his loss. But at 6 p. m., after Policemen David McHale and Frank Youhn had visited the Jarko home for a description, Sergt. Balata sent a patrol wagon and a fatherly policeman and transferred the baby to St. Vincent's orphanage.

At 7 p. m. Mrs. Myrtle Orosco, 20 years old, came to the station and asked Sergt. Balata if a baby had been found. With considerable heat Sergt. Balata said one had, and asked Mrs. Orosco where she had been. Her replies, he said, were vague. She gave her address as 2449 West North avenue and said she had two other children. Her husband, she said, had left her.

N. Y. MILK TIEUP CLAIMS DIFFER; PARLEY IS HELD

Van Hornesville, N. Y., July 8 (AP).—Representatives of 55,000 dairymen in three states agreed tonight on the desirability of a petition to the federal government for higher milk prices as an eight day old blockade of New York City's milk continued amid conflicting claims of its effectiveness.

Owen D. Young, retired industrialist turned farmer, in a statement after a conference with representatives of five producer organizations, said a committee would work out "certain technical details" and report at a meeting here tomorrow.

Holland Foster, general chairman of the 23,000 member Dairy Farmers' union which seeks an increase of 85 cents a hundred weight [47 quarts] over this month's price, said he felt progress was being made. As the conferees met, predictions of a "rather prompt" return to normalcy of New York City's 5 million quart daily fluid supply conflicted with the union's claims of intensified picketing.

WOMAN PLEADS GUILTY IN $4,000 FORGERY CASE

Miss Lee Schuman, 33 years old, who admitted taking $4,000 from her employer to buy clothes and play the horses, pleaded guilty before Judge Julius H. Miner in Criminal court yesterday to a charge of forgery. She obtained the money by raising checks in the office where she was employed as bookkeeper and cashier.

The thefts were discovered when officials of the Globe Paper Box company, 223 West Huron street, checked records partly burned in a record cabinet fire March 12. Miss Schuman, who denied setting the fire, admitted she had thrown missing ledgers into the Des Plaines river to hide the thefts. An application for probation has been set for hearing on July 16. Miss Schuman lives at 6700 Sheridan road.

He was president and director of the Pan-American exposition in Buffalo in 1901.

N. U. PROFESSOR HAS A DATE WITH EVANSTON JUDGE

Prof. E. J. Moulton, former dean of the Northwestern university graduate school and a nationally known mathematics professor, has a date with Municipal Judge Harry H. Porter of Evanston July 22. He is charged with assault and battery as the aftermath of a reported fist fight with Robert A. Sellery, a socially prominent Evanstonian.

Neither he nor Sellery would discuss the matter, but neighbors said there had been arguments over Sellery backing into Moulton's back yard and leaving his car parked in a position blocking the Moulton garage. The Moulton home at 1114 Colfax street, Evanston, and Sellery's home at 1113 Grant street are behind each other, and a fence now built across the back of the Moulton property makes it difficult for Sellery to get into his garage.

Mrs. Moulton said yesterday that Sellery had made himself "objectionable" and had left "little notes" on her husband's car. She said it was just a case of one man ordering another off his property, but added that there was no "spite" involved.

Three Army Planes Fall; Only One Flyer Injured

Madera, Cal., July 8 (AP).—Three two-motored army bombers en route from Savannah, Ga., to March field, Cal., ran out of gas and crashed near Madera tonight. Sergt. C. A. Herron was slightly injured and two of the planes burned.

Sam A. Scribner.

Bronxville, N. Y., July 8.—Sam A. Scribner, 82, veteran theatrical manager, former partner of the late Sam Harris, producer of Broadway shows who died last week, died tonight in his home here. He was founder of the Columbia Amusement company, which operated 40 burlesque theaters.

KENOSHA RIDING STABLE OWNER SHOT TO DEATH

Kenosha, Wis., July 8 [Special].—Frank Cosentino of Kenosha, who operated a riding stable and restaurant in the village of Twin Lakes in the heart of the Kenosha resort country, was shot to death late today by an assailant whose tire tracks are the only clew. Cosentino, who was a suspect in a notorious murder fraud in 1932, was 45 years old.

Philip Sheehan of Chicago found Cosentino's body today when he went to the stable to rent a horse. He spread an alarm and Sheriff Thomas Jester was called. Sheriff Jester found Cosentino had been shot twice behind his ear from close range. He leaves a widow and two daughters.

Cosentino's brother, Mike, was sentenced to prison last week for mayhem and carrying a gun. Mike Cosentino killed a Chicagoan in a saloon here in 1932 and served 5 years of a 15 year sentence. He was on parole at the time of the latest crime.

WHOLESALE MILK PRICES CONTINUE TO RISE LOCALLY

Milk prices in the Chicago market continue to increase, A. W. Colebank, acting administrator of the Chicago federal milk marketing order, reported yesterday in announcing June delivery prices to be paid farmers.

Announced prices show increases in all four classes, the largest being 10.9 cents per hundredweight for class 3, or manufactured utilization. The new prices, per hundredweight: Class 1, $2.119; class 1, relief, $1.630; class 2, $1.969; class 3, $1.785; class 4, $1.487. These represent increases over last month's prices of 3.7 cents per hundredweight for class 1 and 2, and 2.9 cents for class 4.

Colebank's announcement said the increases "result directly from the improved butter and cheese prices in the Chicago butter and Plymouth, Wis., cheese wholesale markets." M. Clifford Townsend, defense director of the department of agriculture, said last month that milk production in the United States for use in cheese and evaporated milk, two chief lend-lease exports, is "considerably below a satisfactory amount."

BOOKLETS GIVE TIPS TO JANITORS ON SMOKE FIGHT

Chicago's 8,000 flat janitors are now receiving copies of a 100 page booklet being distributed by the Chicago Flat Janitors union. Careful attention to the information in the booklet will result in burning 35,000,000 tons of coal smokelessly next winter, William L. McFetridge, union president, said yesterday.

Altho large industrial smokestacks get most of the attention of officials of the city smoke abatement department, it is the small apartment building or individual home which is responsible for most of Chicago's smoke, McFetridge said. Several "smoke clinics" are to be held before the onset of winter.

McFetridge said there are approximately 400,000 heaters fired up and kept in operation during the winter in the Chicago area, and about 35,000,000 tons of coal burned.

STEEL SALESMAN FOUND GUILTY OF MOLESTING GIRL

Wesley E. Bennett, 57 years old, a steel salesmen, already under sentence of three years on a rape charge involving a girl, 13 years old, was found guilty yesterday of taking indecent liberties with another girl, 11. The Criminal court jury which convicted him of the second charge had deliberated nine hours overnight.

Bennett, whose appeal from the previous conviction is now pending before the state Supreme court, was allowed continued liberty under $10,000 bond. His motion for a new trial was set for Aug. 4 by Judge Julius H. Miner.

Bennett, who lives at 4935 North Mozart street, faces a possible sentence of 1 to 20 years in prison on the second charge.

Husband-Wife Golf Contests at Two Clubs

BY JUDITH CASS.

THERE won't be any golfing widows at the Shoreacres on Sunday, or at the Onwentsia Thursday, July 17, for husbands and wives will be competing for the Benedict cups at the clubs on those days. The Shoreacres' crack married golfers and their well wishers will gather for a buffet luncheon before starting off on the 18 hole contest. Mr. and Mrs. George A. Poole Jr., who have won one Benedict trophy, put up a silver platter as the next prize.

The Onwentsia's husband and wife teams will gather at 3:30 o'clock and will celebrate the contest with a dinner afterwards. Mr. and Mrs. Burford L. Porter and the Clarence C. Prentices tied for first place last year.

The Exmoor Country club will have its Benedict cup tournament on Thursday of next week, too. Play will start at 2 o'clock, and will be followed by the club's usual Thursday night buffet dinner. Mr. and Mrs. George C. Baldwin won the cup last year.

It's Just One Debutante Party After Another.

The debutantes and their beaux will be sleeping late today after dancing into the wee small hours at the dinner-dance the James E. Bennetts gave last night at the Saddle and Cycle club for their debutante daughter, Miss Betty. This afternoon the festivities will be resumed, with a tea the John F. Jelkes are giving at home in Lake Forest to introduce their daughter, Miss Mary Louanna Jelke.

Party going will continue until late tonight again, for Mr. and Mrs. Roger B. Bronson are giving a supper-dance at the Onwentsia for their debutante daughter, Barbara. Mr. and Mrs. Owen Barton Jones are entertaining at dinner at home tonight for Miss Bronson and some of the Lake Forest buds and their beaux.

Another dinner party before the dance will be given by Miss Alice Claire Pierson and her sister, Miss Mary Louise Pierson, twin daughters of the Robert Piersons.

Bevy of Buds Will Assist Miss Jelke at Her Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Jelke and their daughter, who always is called Lana, will receive indoors, but they are hoping for a good day so their guests may wander outside. Assisting Miss Jelke will be Miss Bronson, Miss Dudley Winston, Miss Frances Clow, Miss Caryl Casselberry, Miss Louise Strawn, Miss Anne Boswell, Miss Annie Lawrie Ryerson, Miss Merrill Hubbard, Miss Mary Cornelia Aldis, Miss Modrea Mullen, Miss Lee Cudahy, Miss Betty Buck, and Miss Barbara Hixon.

Miss Jelke hasn't any guests from away just now, but she will have several visitors at the dinner-dance her parents will give on Sept. 13. Miss Bronson has two out of town guests, Miss Mary Moseley of Richmond, Va., and Miss Mary Doolittle of Buffalo, N. Y., Sarah Lawrence classmates. Miss Christine Kurth, a Milwaukee debutante, will be coming down for the dance. Miss Jelke was graduated from the Greenwood school in Maryland last month.

Mrs. Henry Bartholomay Entertaining Garden Club.

Today at Lake Geneva Mrs. Henry Bartholomay will be hostess to the Garden club at her home, Black Point. Mrs. William A. Toole of Baraboo, Wis., an authority on herbs and wild flowers, will speak on "The Magic of Herbs in the Menu." Tonight the club members will convene again at the Crane Farms clubhouse to attend a meeting of the Lake Geneva Institute of Natural Science. Looking at Hollywood by John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., July 8.—I got to worrying about Jack Carson, instead of worrying about what to do for a column, so I went over to the Warner plant to see him. "You are such a stuffed shirt," I said. "Such a perfect stuffed shirt that I am sorry for you." And Jack, who is six feet something and weighs 202, just laughed, which was awful nice of him.

"Don't worry about me," he said.

Carson is fitten to worry about because he's such a heel. You hate villains—the guys who try to murder the hero and ravish the heroine—but you respect them because they have menace. Carson hates villains, and has hated them since he began going to the theater, when he was a little boy. But you just have no use for a stuffed shirt—a pompous, phony jerk who hasn't got the stuff to make a real villain. Carson has no use for himself, and his new wife, who is to become a mother in September, hasn't much use for him either. Jack, however, laughs it off because he is snugly entrenched behind a term contract and is getting along a lot better than when he was a vaudeville comedian.

In a movie, Carson is always the fellow who is admired by a girl but never gets her. He has been admired by so many of Hollywood's heroines that you begin to think all of the babes out here are dumb. In "The Bride Came C. O. D." he is engaged to Bette Davis, when everybody knows that Jim Cagney is the boy for Bette long before Miss Davis does herself. In "Love Crazy" he went for Myrna Loy and she went for him after Myrna so foolishly decided to divorce William Powell. In "New Orleans Blues," now in the making, he is a very good trumpet player, but he is a phony. Next, very probably, he will be the football playing alumnus who never grew up in "The Male Animal." And Metro would like to have him as another obnoxious football player in J. P. Marquand's "H. M. Pulham, Esq." There seems to be no hope that Jack will ever be anything but a louse. This does not bother him at all, and it should not bother us.

Eleven months ago Carson married Kay St. Germain, a radio actress. They have a home in the valley. When Jack, as husbands do, acts in a manner of which his wife disapproves, she accuses him of carrying his screen career into their home. But he has one type of public appearance in which he can be the good guy he is. He's master of ceremonies of a Sunday radio musical show which goes over a western network.

Jack is a careful fellow. His ambition is to be successful in his work and "to have a nice family." He has a manager who gets his pay check and puts him on an allowance. He likes gardening and swimming—but has no pool in his one servant house. He most particularly likes golf and is a nine handicapper—but he hasn't joined a club out here. "I work on the Radio Sundays," he explains, "so I don't have much time off. I could play maybe four times a month. I figured it out that if I joined a club and paid dues and bought a couple of drinks after the game, it would cost me $100 a month. That's too much for a couple of games."

Perfect Night Ushers in Park Concert Series

BY EDWARD BARRY.

With Henry Weber conducting and with Vivian Della Chiesa appearing as soprano soloist, the Chicago Opera orchestra last night gave the first concert of the 1941 Grant park series.

A burning passion for music and the knowledge that there was no admission charge drews tens of thousands of people to the lake front. They filled all the seats before the band shell, they sprawled on the fragrant grass, they sauntered up and down thru the great audience area between the drives.

The weather was perfect—cool and fresh and clear and with just enough wind to keep the gnats moving and to make one wish one had brought a coat. Just before the concert a golden sun paused above the Michigan avenue skyline to beam approvingly on the assembling throng. Hardly had he set when a full moon rose out of the lake and started to shine even more radiantly than is her wont.

The evening was a feast of easily grasped melody. The orchestra opened with the lordly themes of the prelude to Wagner's "Die Meistersinger," went on to the lovely sentimental tunes of Strauss' "Tales From the Vienna Woods," and finished the preintermission part of the program with the graver melodies of Liszt's "Les Préludes." After the break came Tschaikowsky's Fifth Symphony, one of the few major works which have been properly recognized and exploited by the popular tunesmiths.

Miss Della Chiesa's part of the program included music as familiar and well liked as the orchestra's. There were Schubert's "Ave Maria," airs from "Faust" and "Madame Butterfly," and an encore group which included Rossini's exhilarating "La Danza."

The orchestra's performance was very creditable if one takes into consideration the fact that this was the first concert of the season. There was a little of the attentiveness that characterizes all musical groups which have just moved from nicely heated halls into the great out-of-doors, and the last movement of the Tschaikowsky symphony did not quite come out even, yet on the other hand there was a heady excitement in the symphony's second movement and a good momentum at the beginning of the "Meistersinger" prelude.

Miss Della Chiesa sang with all of her familiar sincerity and her sense of deep absorption in the music, and in the middle section of the song called "The Kerry Dance" she revealed a dark, mezzolike voice coloring of extraordinary beauty.

Mayor Kelly has designated next Friday evening's concert as a memorial to Ignace Jan Paderewski, Polish pianist and statesman. The concert will be directed by Jerzy Bojanowski, Polish-American conductor who knew Paderewski personally. Mayor Kelly will speak.

Night Is Cool at Ravinia and Music Placid

BY CECIL SMITH.

There was a nippy breeze at Ravinia last night, and the audience by no means set an attendance record, either for the second Tuesday of the season or for any other night whatever. In the program presented by Sir Thomas Beecham and the Chicago Symphony, moreover, there was little that was calculated to set the blood to boiling. Until the splendid fanfares of Rimsky-Korsakoff's music from "The Golden Cockerel" in the last few minutes of the evening, the minds of the listeners were gratified and their senses charmed, but their spines were not caused to tingle.

Haydn's 102d symphony, in B flat once again showed Sir Thomas Beecham to be both a sound and a sensitive interpreter of the music of the classical period. Except for a definite lack of the sort of emotional eagerness which if it were one of his qualities, would keep the music moving more interestingly from point to point, the symphony was laid forth with convincing naturalness and clarity.

The melodies were expressively inflected and the rhythms were well pointed. And yet when all was said and done it seemed almost as the Sir Thomas had reflected upon the music too long and too carefully, so that his interpretation struck one in the end as more of logical exposition than of infectious persuasion.

In making this analysis—with which many who wish to be sure to grant Sir Thomas every ounce of the just praise due him may reasonably disagree in part or altogether—I have also inadvertently reviewed his performance of the incidental music to Bizet's "The Woman of Aries." Choosing five movements, of which three were drawn from the first suite and two from the second, he once again laid the music before us with the most extremely intelligent extroversion. Indubitably it was good conducting, but it was also unexciting.

Beethoven's second symphony likewise emerged in soundly orthodox fashion, conceived in terms of culture and understanding, but none the less a little heavy and literal. During the slow movement I recalled Frederick Stock's observation that only extraordinary felicity of tempo and persuasiveness of delivery can keep the second movement of this symphony from seeming long. And certainly the symphony as a whole is not helped by a methodical outlook and a leisurely pace.

As a whole, then, the program was a letdown after Sunday's inspiriting concert. The string section of the orchestra must have felt that way about it, too, for their articulation, precision, and pitch were not always up to par. Perhaps the players were merely champing at the bit, waiting for an opportunity to put some verve and dash into something.

Paid Companion

By Elizabeth York Miller

[Copyright: 1941: By Elizabeth York Miller]

SYNOPSIS.

Orphaned since childhood, Celia Ames, 22, has no one to whom she can turn when she loses her job. In her loneliness she has fallen in love with ingratiating Val Quentin, a fellow boarder, who is always borrowing money from her. She runs into Felicity Stanmore, four years her junior, whom she mothered in convent days. Felicity's mother is dead and her father, Sir Martin, is 39, handsome and rich. Felicity invites Celia to their home for the week-end and confides to her that she is in love. The man turns out to be Val, and Celia finds that he has bought Felicity a ring with money he got from pawning Celia's jewelry. Sir Martin does not like Val and asks Celia to come live with them as Felicity's companion and help run the household during Felicity's Aunt May Allison's absence. Celia accepts. Miss Allison, jealous of Felicity's love for Celia, has made things as difficult for Celia as possible. Then, too, altho Celia is now cured of her love for Val, she is forced to warn Felicity against him, and Felicity thinks Celia is just jealous. Celia finds herself falling in love with Sir Martin and wanting to live up to his trust in her but at the same time she does not want to tell tales on Felicity. At a cabaret party Sir Martin learns that Val is divorced and living on money from his ex-wife. He forbids Val his house and is furious at Celia for not telling him. Felicity, rebellious, disappears, and Celia frantically follows and finds her on board a train en route to meet Val in Paris. But just as she finds her, Celia stumbles and sprains her ankle badly. As a last desperate effort to stop the elopement Celia tells Felicity about Val pawning her jewelry. Felicity, convinced he is no good, throws his ring away and returns home, but begs Celia not to tell her father. Sir Martin suspects that something is wrong and quarrels with Celia for not telling him what it is.

INSTALMENT XXVII.

UNWANTED.

Celia gulped miserably and wouldn't notice Felicity's tears. In another moment her conscience would begin to rustle, and then she'd be sunk. For what did it all amount to except that she had been humiliated by such an idea being put into Martin Stanmore's head—that she had been making a dead set at him.

For want of a better hole Celia slid under the bedclothes until nothing of her remained to view but the top of her head.

Felicity hesitated, uncertain what to do, and then tiptoed out of the room.

Somehow she had put her foot in it, but with only the haziest idea of how it had happened.

"If only once in your life you would realize that you aren't the only person in the world who counts for anything. Other people have feeling, too—and they also have their rights."

In what way had she infringed upon Celia's rights and feelings?

The sun had set and Jenkins came in to draw the curtains and make up the fire.

Sir Martin and Miss Felicity had gone to the station to meet Miss Allison, she told Celia.

Jenkins was wearing her smug, prim look again. One felt that she had discreetly taken up a position on the fence and was going to have a good look-see before she jumped.

"Shall I help you to your bath, miss? I might not have the opportunity later."

"I can manage quite well," Celia replied.

"Then if you'll have it now, I'll remake the bed. Will you be getting back into it?"

Celia felt she would rather face the crack of doom on the couch, since she couldn't do it on her feet.

"No, I'll sit up for a while."

"Miss Felicity's sent you another peignoir, miss—with her love."

It was a blue one this time. There seemed to be no end to Miss Felicity's peignoirs.

The spirit of rebellion was still going strong in Celia. She was beginning to resent having to thank somebody for something every other minute. Gratitude was sticking in her throat. People said the poor were never grateful for what was done for them, and now she could understand why. It surely is more blessed to give than to receive every time! And the fact that she was behaving ungratefully galled her as much as anything else.

She said, no thank you, she could put the fresh bandage on her ankle herself, and there was nothing more Jenkins could do for her. When she emerged from the bathroom the bed had been remade and the blue peignoir was spread on the counterpane. Jenkins had gone.

Celia's lips tightened as she eyed the peignoir.

This was going to hurt more than her ankle—which really did not hurt at all now—and almost as much as the humiliation Val and Felicity had put upon her. Yes, and almost as much as being wretchedly in love with a man who, if he gave her a thought, it was only to despise her.

She had been getting too soft; taking everything as a matter of course, when it was only borrowed plumage.

She got out some fresh underwear, her own, and noted with resignation that one of the stockings ran a rippling ladder from top to ankle as she drew it on. And then she hopped with the aid of her two sticks to the cupboard where she had locked the old woolen bathrobe.

It felt like an early Christian's hair shirt and was almost as repellent in its grubbiness, but she put it on and gained a martyr's satisfaction.

From the bed Felicity's pale blue confection had all the glamor of sin, but it seemed necessary to put Satan behind one. When, slightly exhausted from the struggle, she sought the couch, Celia shifted the cushions so that she needn't look temptation in the face.

Somebody was at the door, and she knew from the sharp clicking sound of the step that it wasn't Felicity or Jenkins, or even Martin Stanmore. The room suddenly grew cold—or was it only a draft from the hall that entered with May Allison.

Celia turned her head and felt that it would be becoming of her to get to her feet, but somehow she could not make the effort.

"I hope I'm not disturbing you."

"O, no, not in the least, Miss Allison."

Auntie May had not waited even to remove her hat and traveling coat before coming up to inquire for the invalid's health.

The coat was made like a man's ulster and her heavy gloves were mannish looking too. She began to jerk them off impatiently.

"They tell me you're likely to be laid up for another week or so."

"Yes, that's what the doctor said. But won't you sit down, Miss Allison. Please excuse me for not getting up. Did you have a comfortable journey?"

"Quite comfortable, thank you."

"We—we were surprised that you came back so soon."

Celia's nerve, which wasn't as castiron as she could have wished, was beginning to crack.

"Yes, I expect you were," said Auntie May. She made no move to sit down; she just stood there, formidable and quite implacable. "I hardly got on the train, Celia, before I realized that I was turning my back on duty, and nobody has a right to do that. And now that you are like this, it is a good thing I did return."

"I'm sorry, Miss Allison."

"Don't blame yourself, Celia. I'm not insinuating that you sprained your ankle on purpose. For some reason or other, as yet obscure to me, Felicity seems to think it was her fault. It's only your misfortune, my child."

There was an awkward pause. Celia could think of nothing whatever to say, and it seemed as tho Miss Allison were waiting for her to say something.

She might have been pretty if only she were little softer and wore different clothes. Was May Allison what people called a disappointed spinster? If so, it might be her own fault.

"I was wondering if you had any suggestions to make?" she said.

"About what?"

"Well, Celia, I should think you could see for yourself it's going to be a little awkward for all of us. My brother thinks it would be a good idea if we moved you to a nursing home, but of course he doesn't like to suggest it himself."

"It isn't broken," said Celia. "The bone was grazed—the outer covering, or something. It's just inflamed, and ever so much better now, altho I haven't tried to use my foot."

She spoke calmly but felt she was not being very coherent, because all the time she was thinking of something else—thinking of Martin and how plain it was now that he wanted to see the last of her.

"Well, you'll be wise not to use it, and you'll be very happy and comfortable in a nursing home. We will defray the expense, of course. O, yes, and my brother asked me to give you five pounds. In lieu of a week's notice, as you were paid in advance when you came here. Now if I send Jenkins to help you, do you think you could be ready in—say about half an hour?"

"Easily," said Celia.

We broil beef steaks, but never pork steaks, for broiling would leave the pork pieces untender and dry, even tho it has the opposite effect upon sirloins and porterhouses. Pork steaks must be braised to be tender, moist, and flavorful. One of the best ways to braise them is in a creole sauce.

Pork Steaks in Creole Sauce.

Flour, salt, pepper
2 tablespoons fat
1 small onion or six green onions, chopped
1¼ cups canned tomatoes
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Dredge chops in seasoned flour and brown on both sides in fat. Add onion, ½ cup tomatoes, green pepper, and Worcestershire sauce, and cover. Cook at simmering temperature, or bake in the oven for 1 hour, adding the rest of the tomatoes in two portions at intervals during cooking. Temperature must be low, about 325 degrees, if the oven is used. Taste the sauce during cooking and add more salt if it is needed.

Plain refrigerator rolls, when they're good, can't be beat by any of the fancier kinds of yeast hotbreads. They can't help being good if you knead the dough thoroly.

¾ cup milk
3 tablespoons shortening
1 teaspoon salt
1 cake yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
1 egg
About 3¼ cups flour

Scald milk and pour over sugar, shortening, and salt in a mixing bowl. Cool to lukewarm. Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Add with beaten egg to milk mixture. Add half the flour and beat thoroly. Add remainder of flour and knead until smooth and elastic. Grease the top of the dough, cover bowl closely with waxed paper and a towel, and store in the refrigerator until wanted. About 2½ or 3 hours before baking, take from refrigerator as much dough as is wanted, and shape into small buns or cloverleaf rolls. Place in greased pans, cover, and let rise until double and light, and bake at 425 degrees for 15-20 minutes.

This spice cake smells so good in the oven that you'll probably have trouble waiting for a sample after it's set forth to cool.

Spice Cake.

[Eight inch square loaf.]

2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ginger
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
¼ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
3 tablespoons molasses
7 tablespoons cold coffee

Sift flour, baking powder, salt, and spices three times together. Cream butter and add sugar gradually. Beat until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs. Add molasses and blend. Alternately add flour and coffee, in about three portions each, beating well after each addition. Fill greased pan and bake at 350 degrees 40 minutes or longer, until done. Frost with any butter frosting.

Here Is Sally's Last Call for Party Letters

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department is sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Tomorrow's the deadline, boys and girls!

If all of you youngsters who want to come to our Hotel Sherman party don't mail your letters today you're going to be out of luck. I know that not many children would want to miss this opportunity to attend this party which will be given especially for my guests, so this is your last warning.

Tomorrow I'm going to read all the requests that have been pouring in from youngsters who want to see this special show at the Panther Room, and I'll select 50 boys and 50 girls as my guests.

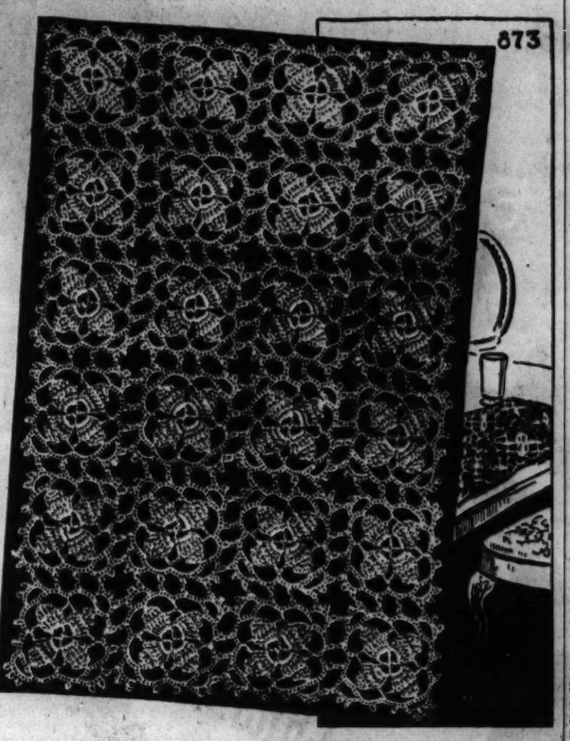
If you think you'd like to watch Coleman Clark, one of the most famous table tennis players in the United States, or Carl Marx, the clown who'll do all sorts of tricks for us, and can write a good letter telling me all about it, maybe you'll see your name listed with the winners in next Sunday's TRIBUNE. It won't be there, however, if you don't write that letter all by yourself, or if you forget to tell me your full name, address, and age.

We have no long list of rules, and you don't have to worry about spelling, so if you really want to come to this party, it shouldn't be hard for you to convince me that you certainly should have an invitation.

Don't forget, tho, that even if you write the best letter in the world and remember to include the information I request—the letter must be on my desk tomorrow morning or it can't possibly be a winner.

Don't waste a minute getting started, boys and girls, if you expect to be my guest at the Hotel Sherman on July 17. The address is just Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

Stylized Acorn Medallion



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

A completely original design, this stylized acorn medallion offers a new high in crochet work. It affords a perfect choice of pattern for a formal luncheon doily, and it is "as easy as pie" to make. Ivory, mercerized, crochet cotton is an ideal medium for a luncheon set, but a finer thread in ecru may be used for buffet cloths or dresser scarfs.

For instructions in crocheting the acorn medallion luncheon set, No. 873, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

According to CULBERTSON

Copyright: 1941: By Ely Culbertson.

There are many factors which should influence the choice of a final contract, some of them so subtle that they may be "spotted" only by a highly experienced player. Consider the following hand:

NORTH
♥ K J 7
♦ 10 6
♣ K 7 3

WEST
♠ 7
♥ 9 6 3
♦ A K Q J 2

EAST
♠ Q 6 3
♥ 10 4
♦ 8 7 5 4 3
♣ Q 9 2

SOUTH
♠ 10 9 8 4
♥ A Q 8 5 2
♦ 9
♣ 10, 6 5

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	2 hearts	3 diamonds
3 hearts	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
Pass	Pass

As may be seen, South has something of a problem when, having bid and been raised in hearts, he must then develop the bidding further. On the second round I fear that too many players would choose to show the spade support. In fact, from a superficial viewpoint, if South bids three spades over North's three hearts, he is proceeding quite normally. Yet, in this particular hand, and in countless hands of a similar nature, this belated raise on South's part probably would be fatal. North certainly could not be criticized for bidding four spades rather than four hearts, but altho exactly the same tricks are "off the hand" at hearts and at spades, a four heart contract has a good chance for success while a four spade contract is inevitably doomed.

The difference lies in the fact that at spades South must expose his hand as dummy and thereby reveal his singleton diamond! Playing against spades, East opens a low diamond to partner's bid. West, not being blind, can see dummy's singleton and thereupon a shift to clubs becomes not only simple, but mandatory. This shift will be fatal. East controls the spade suit with his queen, and the defenders will take two clubs, one diamond, and a spade, come what may.

At hearts, it is a vastly different matter. West opens his diamond king but then, despite his partner's low follow suit card, can hardly be so clairvoyant as to shift to clubs, particularly in view of his own A-J holding, the king staring at him in dummy, and his ignorance as to the queen's whereabouts. Obviously, the normal diamond continuation by West gives South his four heart contract, since he maintains club control while establishing North's spade suit.

The basis, then, for South's choice to continue bidding hearts rather than to support the spades en route, is his singleton diamond which, if he realizes what is best for him, he must keep concealed from the enemy.

Tomorrow's Hand.

July 9, 1941.

Universal day—Be sure you have everything under control today or you might get unexpected opposition.

Special Numbers—The number 17 is considered very fortunate. It's symbol is "The Star" and it has a spiritual significance. All the influences it supposedly throws off are of beauty. It is the number of intuition, psychic power, graceful expression, and promises success to anything undertaken under its influence, which is idealistic in nature. There always is great hope associated with this number and it places emphasis on moral issues. It would be a good number for new beginnings, especially if they were of an artistic nature. It symbolizes good judgment based on intuition and fine instincts.

Twenty-One Years Ago.

The little magazine This Week in Chicago is 21 years old this week. Marie Armstrong Hecht, Ben Hecht's first wife, was the first editor. She left Chicago in the mid-twenties. We remember her, a large blonde Lillian Russell of a woman, with a penchant for parrots and marzipan and music.

The present editor, Marion Odmark, looked back to see the fads and highlights of the first year of This Week in Chicago:

Women bought dresses not for line but for trimming. They wore peg top atrocities of tricotine, Poiret twill, figured and beaded georgette. The French heels of their slippers were mounted well under the arch of long vamp slippers; their hair was nested inside beaded bands for evening elegance.

Everybody was following the "Kernel Cootie" cartoon; buying the records The Moon Shines on the Moon Shine, and Dardanella. People drove about in a Velie, a Chandler, a Premier, a Maxwell, a Haynes, a Scripps-Booth, a Winton, a Paige, or a Holmes [that swings along at 30-40 miles an hour over country roads where other cars must slow down to 18-20 if the occupants are to stay in their seats, an advertisment said].

BEN HOGAN AND JIM DEMARET TIE WITH 140S

19 Shatter Par in Scoring Spree.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Denver, Colo., July 8.—Sam Snead, invalid, hard luck artist, and, come to think of it, a heluva golfer, today won the Alex Smith Memorial qualifying medal in the 24th annual national professional tournament with a 36 hole score of 138, four under par for the Cherry Hills club. Sam added a 69 to his similar card of yesterday for his winning total.

The young man from Hot Springs, Va., for whom every championship has been predicted since he came up to the big league in 1937, thus at long last has clicked on a national distinction, for in this bitterest of all tournaments, you're good if you can win even the medal. The history of Snead is well known, but still bears repeating.

Remember That Terrible 8?

He lost the 1937 National Open to Ralph Guldahl's world record score and fumbled on the goal line in 1939, via that memorable eight on the 72d hole. He has twice been runner-up for this PGA championship. And in the last few months he came down with a back misery which threatened to keep him out of the show.

One stroke away from Snead at the finish of one of the wildest scoring days in PGA records was Ernie [Dutch] Harrison, Illinois PGA champ from Chicago. The lean Ernest, who yesterday used his native Arkansas argot to describe a 68 as the result of quail high shooting, played a bit of skeet today and wound up with a 71 and 139. Tied at 140 were Ben Hogan, the Hershey, Pa., 140 pounder and one of the top favorites to win; two of Texas' best—Jimmy Demaret and Henry Ransom—and George Fazio, a dark horse from Philadelphia.

Guldahl Cards 141.

Guldahl, the Chicagoan who won his 1938 Open crown on this same Cherry Hills yard; Harry Bassler, copacemaker with Harrison yesterday; Jack Ryan of Louisville, Ky., and Herman Keiser of Akron, O., were next with 141s. Matching par of 142 for the two day distance were Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, Victor Ghezzi of Deal, N. J., and Horton Smith, late of Oak Park, Ill., and presently of Pinehurst, N. C.

An inkling of what transpired here today can be extracted from the fact that 19 in the field of 99 starters broke par 71 in the second round and eight others equaled it. There has been no such punishment of a golf course in recent national competition since the National Open of 1936 at Baltusrol and this same tournament at Shawnee-on-the-Delaware, Pa., in 1938. Possibly it was a case of giving Cherry Hills a come-uppance for the way it baffled so many of these same lads in the open three years ago.

But it isn't quite the same Cherry Hills of 1938. All of that manufactured hay bordering the fairways then has vanished and a man has a fairway to shoot at.

Count 'Em—10 on 18th!

On the sad side were such performances as that by Verl Stinchcomb of Ashtabula, O., who had a 37—47—84 that was capped by a 10 on the 18th hole, and the 77—79—156 by which Johnny Revolta, 1935 champion from Evanston, Ill., failed to make the grade. And there was a deal of muttering by one Byron Nelson of Toledo, O., the defending champion. As such Byron didn't have to qualify but he went out for the air today. He had a 35—37—72, but was downright riled by his putting fortunes.

The real ball game, of course, begins tomorrow when Nelson and the 63 low scorers for the medal play side get to swinging at each other. The last two of those places were won in a two hole play-off among three 154 shooters by Tony Penna of Dayton, O., and Jimmy Hines of Great Neck, N. Y. Penna moved in by nearly driving the first green, and then chipping up to four feet for a bird. Hines made a great second shot to the second extra hole to win the last match play rôle from Joe Brown of Des Moines, Ia., who three putted.

Tomorrow's program includes 32 matches in the morning and 16 in the afternoon. From there on the battle will be waged over a daily 36 hole route thru Sunday's championship match.

TED WILLIAMS' HOMER BEATS N. L., PASSEAU

Vaughan Connects Twice for Losers.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., July 8.—Ted Williams' three run homer off Claude Passeau of the Cubs, with two out in the ninth inning this afternoon, gave the American league a 7 to 5 victory and 54,674 fans the most thrilling finish in the nine games of the All-Star series. Edgar Smith of the White Sox was the winning pitcher.

Williams, by his big wind up shot, grabbed the laurel wreath off the brow of Arky Vaughan, bench riding captain of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Arky had driven in four of the Nationals' five runs with homers in successive times at bat. His first homer was off Sid Hudson of Washington, with one on in the seventh. The second one, also with one on, came against Smith in the eighth.

Food for Second Guessers.

The winners' four run ninth probably will go down as a rich source of second guessing among baseball folk.

In the first place, Passeau was the only pitcher Manager Bill McKechnie gave more than two innings of work. That'll be the initial second guess.

In the ninth Hero Vaughan was replaced by Eddie Miller at short. With one down, Miller played Ken Keltner's grounder awkwardly and it generously was scored a hit when it bounced off Eddie's torso. Next Joe Gordon lined a single to right center. No second guess here. Cecil Travis walked after a three and two count, loading the bases. The Nationals, however, still were leading 5 to 3.

Joe DiMaggio, who had doubled in the eighth for his only hit, and had scored two runs, was up. He sent what looked like a game ending double play ball to Miller. Miller made a good toss to Bill Herman to force Travis as Keltner scored. Herman made a bad relay to Frank McCormick to miss the double play and the game went on.

And Up Comes Williams!

There was room on the bases for Williams, .405 hitter at the top of the American league. But Passeau had struck out Ted in the turbulent eighth. It was decided he might do it again. With the count two balls and one strike the Boston bean pole slashed. It was apparent with the impact that the end of the game was simply a matter of when the ball came down. Right field is short in Detroit, but Williams' smash would have cleared any fence in the majors by yards and yards.

The game, while dramatic tops in the All-Star series, was more loosely played, defensively, than most games. There were two errors by the Nationals and three by the Americans and these demerits did not include a sprawl by Bob Elliott which gave Williams a spurious double and the Americans the first run of the game. Nor did they include Miller's awkwardness on Keltner's grounder or Herman's faulty handling on that double play chance in the ninth.

The winners made no runs and no hits off Whitlow Wyatt, who pitched the first two innings. Paul Derringer worked the third and fourth innings, retired the Americans in order in the third, but ran afoul of a legitimate double by Travis and Elliott's tumble in the fourth. Bucky Walters was knocked for three hits and a run in the fifth and sixth innings.

Feller Yields One Hit.

Then Passeau, who lost in Pittsburgh Sunday, 2 to 1, on two homers by Elbie Fletcher, went in at the start of the seventh and stayed to the finish. Claude retired his opponents in order in the seventh, yielded a double and two singles for a run in the eighth, in which inning he also struck out two—Williams with one on base and Jimmy Foxx to end the inning with the tying runs on third and second.

Bob Feller held the Nationals to a third inning single by Lonnie Frey. Thornton Lee of the White Sox had little trouble in the fourth and fifth.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., July 8.—You have heard about athletic teams pulling victory out of the fire in the late moments of play, but the American league pulled one out of the ashes in Briggs stadium today to whip the National league, 7 to 5, in the ninth annual All-Star game. . . . There were two down, runners on first and third, and the score 5 to 4 in favor of the Nationals when Ted Williams, the American league's leading hitter, proved himself a star among stars by smashing one of Claude Passeau's pitches to the façade of the third deck of the right field stands for the three runs that sent a capacity crowd of 54,674 into emotional frenzy. . . . It was the most sensational finish this thrill studded series has produced. . . . Williams' tremendous wallop kept Arky Vaughan, a captain who has been a bench warmer for his own team, from being the toast of the nation. . . . The Pittsburgh shortstop had put the National leaguers in front by a comfortable margin with two home runs in successive times at bat. . . . Vaughan's circuit drives had all but dimmed the last ray of hope among American league partisans. . . . Today's victory gives the American league a record of six victories in the nine All-Star games. . . . The attendance boosted the total cash patronage for the series to 401,328. . . . This was the third largest throng that has turned out to see the parade of baseball's greats. . . . It was exceeded only in Cleveland in 1935 and in New York in 1939. . . . Williams is one of five players who were in action from start to finish. . . . The others were Pete Reiser of the Dodgers, Terry Moore of the Cardinals, Cecil Travis of the Senators, and Joe DiMaggio.

Jimmy Dykes.

Claude Passeau.

Both teams had clubhouse meetings at 10 o'clock this morning. In connection with strategy plans, both offensive and defensive, the teams had to fix up a set of secret signs without tipping off any used currently in league competition. . . . Stan Hack of the Cubs, Bill Herman of the Dodgers, and Lon Warneke of the Cardinals, Cub stars in the 1935 world series against the Tigers, found the home of the Detroit club hardly recognizable as the same baseball premises. . . . Several hundred thousand dollars have been spent on Briggs stadium since the Cubs last played there, most of the changes being made in the outfield stands. . . . Vice President Harry Grabiner of the White Sox, in conversation with reporters, was optimistic in regard to the length of the indefinite suspension of Manager Jimmy Dykes imposed by President William Harridge. . . . Mr. Harridge, however, didn't share Grabiner's optimism. . . . "Dykes will not be reinstated until we have definite assurance from the club itself, not from Dykes, that he will conduct himself like the other seven American league managers," Harridge said. . . . "No manager is bigger than the league," he added, "but Dykes for years has tried to promote himself at the expense of the league and the president's office. We are thru with those tactics." . . . Joe Medwick, an added starter on the National league squad, was unable to recognize left field where he was showered with vegetables in the 1934 world series. . . . The temporary stands from where the vegetables were hurled have been replaced by a two deck grandstand. . . .

Bob Feller, who could have breakfasted in style and grandeur, preferred to perch himself on a lunch counter stool as he stuffed his morning victuals at 9:30 a. m. Moreover, he stayed at the Indians' regular hotel instead of joining other All-Stars at American league headquarters. . . . The Indians played an exhibition game in Flint, Mich., last night and were billeted in Detroit in that connection. . . . The Yankees, who always appear to be more interested in baseball than any other major league outfit, were represented on and off the field today with no fewer than 18 players. . . . White Sox athletes who have ducked actual assignments on All-Star squads in this and other years afforded marked contrast from the zeal of the Yanks in matters pertaining to their trade.

American and National league players did little fraternizing in downtown hotels, but those democratic souls, the umpires, have been forgetting league lines, and quite properly. . . . The four who worked today's conquest, Bill Summers, Babe Pinelli, Bill Grieve, and Lou Jorda, dined together last night in peace and harmony and placed practically no one in the grease. . . . Jimmy Foxx was the only player on either squad who has been a member of all nine All-Star teams. . . . The lawn in Briggs stadium was not in keeping with the elegance of the structural part of the plant. . . . There are big patches of recently resodded ground and yesterday's rain wasn't wet enough to make the patches green.

The Cub members of the National league team could be distinguished easily because of their baby blue uniforms with the white epaulets. . . . Joe Louis, world's heavyweight champion, watched the game from a seat on the American league side of the field. . . . While Joe was enjoying his favorite pastime his managers, John Roxborough and Julian Black, were in Chicago talking with attorneys about divorce proceedings started against the Brown Bomber by his 25 year old wife. . . . Edward J. Hughes, Illinois secretary of state, stopped off for the game on his way back from New York, where a few days ago he helped Col. M. J. Winn, horse racing's most widely known executive, celebrate his 80th birthday. . . . Hank Greenberg, one of the United States army's most famous recruits, came over from Camp Custer to see what the All-Star game looked like from the stands. . . . He played in two of the contests, including the one in St. Louis a year ago.

Fred Mandel, owner of the Detroit Lions, was host at a party in a downtown hotel after the game. . . . Commissioner Elmer Layden, of the National Football league, who attended the game, was guest of honor. . . . William Veeck, president of the Milwaukee club who until recently was treasurer of the Cubs, mingled with major league magnates hoping to pick up some material for the American association's last place team. . . .

Tommy Connolly, American league umpire in chief, saw the game from a grandstand seat with President Harridge. . . . Others in the Harridge party were Dr. and Mrs. M. W. Caveney, Henry P. Edwards and Mr. and Mrs. L. C. McEvoy, Miss Mary V. Ryan, Fred J. Ringley, Edward Lehmann, and Mr. and Mrs. Paige Watson. . . . President Ford Frick of the National league was accompanied by Harvey Traband, league secretary, and William Brandt, director of publicity. . . . Jimmy Gallagher, general manager of the Cubs, who has seen the previous All-Star games from the press box, represented Chicago's National league club. . . . The first real stir from the crowd was when Joe DiMaggio, who has hit safely in 48 consecutive games for baseball's all time record, stepped to the plate the first time. . . . Joe popped a high foul fly to Stan Hack.

Ten Years Ago Today—Vic Frasier pitched the last place White Sox to a 3 to 0 victory over Cleveland. . . . Kaye Don, British sportsman, broke his own world's speed boat record by piloting the Miss England II. 110 miles an hour. . . . Jockey Bobby Jones won three races at Arlington Park.

BECKWITH MEETS TEST TONIGHT IN NASH GARRISON

Heavies Top Stadium's Outdoor Card.

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Booker Beckwith, Gary Negro boxer, who has distinguished himself as a light heavyweight and has also won three heavyweight bouts since turning professional two years ago, will try his skill in the latter classification tonight against Nash Garrison of San José, Cal. The 10 round bout will head the first show of the season in the new outdoor arena recently erected by the Stadium in the parking lot immediately east of the big building.

Competing as a heavyweight he previously beat Selman Martin and knocked out Altus Allen and Lee Oma. In his last start, however, on May 28 the 1938 international and intercity Golden Gloves middleweight champion returned to the light heavyweight class to hammer out a decision in 10 rounds over Solly Krieger in the Stadium. Booker weighed only 170 pounds on that occasion.

Garrison Has Weight Advantage.

Beckwith likely will carry less than 175 pounds this evening. At that rate, Garrison, who scaled 197 pounds while scoring a surprise triumph in 10 rounds over Tony Musto in San Jose last June 10, will outweigh his lanky opponent by approximately 25 pounds. This superior weight probably will be the 28 year old Nash's sole advantage over the Indiana minister's son.

Babe Griffin, manager of the Californian, yesterday said that his protégé's swings might end the fight early, thus dropping Booker for his first defeat in the money ranks.

Rodak on Card.

The Garrison-Beckwith encounter is supported by two other matches of 10 rounds, an eight round event, and a four round opener. Frankie [Chief Crazy Horse] Martin, Pasadena, Cal., lightweight, is paired with Quentin [Babe] Breese of Milwaukee, and Leo Rodak, south side 135 pounder, with Nick Castiglione of the west side in 10 round contests. Allen, former International Golden Gloves heavyweight winner, will oppose Bill Petersen of Indiana Harbor in the eight rounder. The four round engagement will bring together Ronald Born, Granite City, Ill., featherweight, and Jimmy Joyce.

Tigers Pound Out 19-9 Victory Over Lansing

Lansing, Mich., July 8 (AP).—After six innings of home runs and extra base hits had produced only a tied 6 to 6 count, the Detroit Tigers broke loose in the last three innings and buried the Lansing Senators of the Michigan State league under a 19 to 9 score in an exhibition contest today.

The hit turned an imminent 5 to 4 American league defeat into a 7 to 5 beating for the National league. Merv Shea (30), American league coach, also greets Ted.

Riggs, ranked No. 2 behind McNeill in the western, eliminated George Newton of Indianapolis, 6-0, 6-1, and Robert Kimbrell of Los Angeles, 6-2, 6-1.

SUN AGAIN WINS FUTURITY TRIAL; SOME CHANCE 3D

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Calumet Farm is assured of exceptionally strong representation in next Saturday's $50,000 Futurity at Arlington Park. This became evident yesterday when Warren Wright's Sun Again finished first and his stablemate, Some Chance, third in the Brookfield purse, the most exacting tuneup for the rich stake which has been run thus far in the meeting.

The Calumet entry was held at 3 to 5 odds in this five and a half furlong sprint against several of the best juveniles racing at Arlington Park. Butch Covington's highly regarded Zig Zag, which is not eligible for the Futurity, got in between the Calumet representatives to take second place, a length behind the leader and three lengths ahead of the third horse.

May Win Both Events.

The excellent performance of Sun Again and Some Chance indicated that it may be possible for Calumet Farm, now enjoying the most successful season of its history, to sweep the two most important events of the Arlington meeting—the Futurity and the Classic. With these two youngsters ready for the Futurity and Whirlaway in good shape for the Classic, trainer Ben Jones has a good opportunity to send out the winners of both stakes.

During their campaign down east, Sun Again and Some Chance accounted for the most important events for 2 year olds at Belmont's spring meeting, the former taking the juvenile stakes and the latter the National Stallion stakes. They ran one-two in the juvenile.

He Gets Away This Time.

Sun Again had made one previous start during the Arlington meeting, but on that occasion he had been practically left at the post. Even at that he closed a tremendous gap to finish fourth, only a length and a half behind the winner. Yesterday, however, Wendell Eads saw to it that he didn't get left and brought him right in handily.

Other Futurity candidates, Man's Man, Valdina Alpha, and Son Forever, ran against the Calumet entry in yesterday's sprint. Man's Man, a stablemate of late year's Futurity winner, Swain, until the latter changed hands this week, had scored impressively several days ago. The well bred Son Forever had carried the Milky Way farm colors to victory recently in the first start of his career. But when Sun Again started running, none of these contenders could keep up.

Sun Again's time for the five and a half furlongs was 1:05, which was 4-5 of a second slower than the track record. His prices across the board were $3.40, $2.40, and $2.60.

TED WILLIAMS' HOMER WINS FOR A. L. IN NINTH, 7-5

Two Out—He Connects with Passeau Pitching.

Hudson was throne in the seventh, the activity including Vaughan's first homer. And Smith, the ultimate winner, suffered embarrassment as a result of Johnny Mize's double and Vaughan's second homer in the eighth. Smitty braced in the first of the ninth, retiring Passeau, Cookie Lavagetto and Terry Moore in order.

The game was played in perfect weather, cool but sunshiny. There was no threat of rain such as fell yesterday to cause some anxiety. There were no untoward incidents and only one squawk, a very mild one on the umpiring.

Feller Fans Hack.

Here's the chronological story of the game:

Feller fanned Stan Hack on four pitches, Terry Moore popped out and Pete Reiser struck out. Wyatt found the Americans just as easy. Doerr popped the first pitch to Lonnie Frey. Travis flied to Reiser and Joe DiMaggio fouled to Hack. In the Nationals' second Mize flied deep to Joe DiMaggio, Bill Nicholson took a third strike, and Vaughan fouled to Williams. Ted walked to open the Americans' half, but went down in a double play when Jeff Heath tapped to Frey. Nicholson then took Joe Cronin's fly.

Frey started the third with a single to right, the first hit of the game, but was picked off first by Feller. Owen flied to Williams and Mel Ott, batting for Wyatt, struck out. It was Derringer and Lopez as the Americans came up in the third. Rudy York flied to Reiser, Dickey bounced to Frey, and Roy Cullenbine, swinging for Feller, tapped to Derringer.

Lee's All-Star debut at the start of the fourth meant nothing to Hack, who singled. After Moore flied to Heath Reiser hit into a double play, York taking his grounder, touching first, then throwing to Cronin in time to get Hack.

Travis doubled in the fourth for the Americans with one out and Reiser raced back for Joe DiMaggia's long one. Williams shot a line drive which Elliott, who had replaced Nicholson, should have caught. He staggered, stumbled, and fell, the ball going over his sprawled form for a double, Travis scoring. Then Heath struck out.

Walters Scores Tying Run.

Vaughan beat out an infield single off Lee with two out in the fifth and after Bill Herman singled to center, Lopez forced Vaughan at third. Walters faced the Americans in their half and York and Dickey singled after one was out, but nothing happened.

Walters started the Nationals' tying rally with a double in the sixth. After Hack sacrificed, Bucky scored on Moore's fly to Williams. Heath dropped Reiser's fly for a two base error, but Mize bounced out. With one out in the Americans' half, Joe DiMaggio and Heath walked. Lou Boudreau sent in Joe with a single to center and the runners took an extra base when the ball got past Reiser for an error. York then flied out.

Enos Slaughter greeted Hudson in the seventh with a single to left and went to second when Williams fumbled. Vaughan then lined out his first homer to put the Nationals ahead, 3 to 2. Herman doubled to left and moved up on Lopez' sacrifice. Ducky Medwick's pinch batting effort was a grounder to Boudreau, who held Herman on third. After Hack walked, Moore fanned.

Vaughan Connects Again.

Passeau's first inning—the seventh—was easy. Hack made a leaping catch of Dickey's liner. Charley Keller, batting for Hudson, fanned, then Gordon grounded out.

Smith fanned Reiser at the start of the National's eighth. Mize doubled to right and after Slaughter was called out on strikes, Vaughan bashed his second homer. Herman grounded to Foxx and was safe when Smith missed the bag after taking the toss at first. Danning popped out.

After Smith retired the Nationals in the ninth you know what happened to Passeau immediately afterward.

Six Oak Park Girls Enter Tribune Meet

BY WILFRID SMITH.

A team of six girls, competing in two of the five age divisions, will represent the Oak Park, Ill., club in the 12th annual 100 yard free style swimming races sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. These girls will compete in the qualifying meet at California park July 20.

Four trials will be held, however. In addition to the races at California park, other qualifying races will be held July 20 at Whealan pool. On July 19 the trials will be held at Sherman park, 52d street and Racine avenue, and Cermak pool, 7600 Ogden avenue, Lyons, Ill.

Sunday Midnight Is Deadline.

The personnel of the Oak Park team is Patricia Poyten and Joan Vielehr, class B [13 and 14 years of age] and Helen Oltman, Phyllis Oltman, Bonnie Jean Schmieg, and Marilynn B. Billquist in class C [15 and 16 years of age].

Individual and team entries must be submitted for the qualifying meets not later than midnight Sunday.

Other team entries received yesterday were from the New Lawrence hotel pool and Griffith Natatorium. The Griffith swimmers, since they come from the far south side, probably will compete in the Sherman park trials. These contestants are Dorothy Parker and Lavern Johnson, class C, and Joyce Johnson and William Kooistra, class B. There are separate races, of course, for boys and girls and this division of trials produces ten championship finals which will be held July 27 in the California park pool.

Qualifiers to Get Gold Medals.

Each winner of a qualifying race will receive a gold medal. Approximately 120 of these will be awarded at the four sectionals. They will be distributed according to the total number of entries at each section and the number of entries in each age class.

STOCKS TRADED WITH A RUSH AS GAINS CONTINUE

Advance Attributed to Inflation Fear.

Up by a Billion!

New York, July 8 (AP).—More than $1,000,000,000 has been added to the market values of shares listed in the New York Stock exchange in the two days of rising prices this week, financial circles estimated today.

New York, July 8 (AP).—Financial markets again bounded up today as inflation murmurs became a bit more pronounced and war news generally was interpreted as moderately bullish.

Stocks extended Monday's bulge by fractions to more than 2 points in the liveliest dealings of the last eight months and the first million share day of this year.

The direction was forward from the start, overnight word of the United States occupation of Iceland failing to intimidate bidders. Another upswing in commodities also provided fuel for speculative fires.

Index Highest Since Jan. 28.

Altho closing prices were a shade under their best, the Associated Press average of 60 issues retained a net advance of .6 of a point at 42.3 on top of a gain of .7 Monday. The composite today was at its highest mark since Jan. 28.

Today's market was one of the broadest in months, 886 individual stocks appearing on the ticker tape. Of these, 654 were up, 87 down, and 145 unchanged. Transfers of 1,387,673 shares compared with 896,510 the day before and were the largest since Nov. 12, last.

Inflation thinking, brokers said, was based mainly on reports proposed price fixing legislation might meet opposition in congress.

Among stocks at 1941 highs were J. I. Case, Savage Arms, Standard Oil [N. J.], and Texas corporation. Pepsi-Cola, recent strong sprinter, closed with a minus sign.

CHICAGO RISE CONTINUES.

Prices continued their advance on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday, and volume remained far above the recent average at 41,000 shares. Chicago corporation led the list in turnover and advanced ⅛ point net to 1 on a volume of 3,250 shares. Aviation corporation rose ¼ to 3¾, and Commonwealth Edison ⅛ to 26½.

Fractional advances carried three issues to new 1941 highs: Butler Brothers at 6⅛, Bendix Aviation at 39½, and Standard Oil of Indiana at 32⅛.

Of six dually listed issues traded in the half-hour after the New York close, all but one were shaded fractionally in price.

TOTAL JOBLESS PLACED BELOW 4 MILLION IN MAY

New York, July 8 (AP).—The Industrial Conference board reported today that unemployment in May dropped 1,395,000 to the lowest total since September, 1930. In May of this year 3,962,000 persons were unemployed compared with 8,735,000 persons in the same 1940 month, it said.

The combined total of WPA, CCC, and out-of-school NYA workers declined 154,000 in May to 2,120,000.

Soy Beans Up 4 Cents More; Grains Follow

Reports of congressional opposition to proposed legislation to curb advancing prices of agricultural products, combined with strength in cotton and cottonseed oil, sent soy bean, lard, and grain prices soaring yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Soy beans led the advance and at one time showed a gain of more than 4 cents a bushel. Closing sales were 3¼ to 3⅝ cents higher with July at $1.55⅝.

All deliveries of wheat sold at new seasonal highs, and closed 1⅛ to 2⅛ cents higher with July at $1.06⅞. Corn gained ⅝ to ⅞ cent and oats finished ½ to ¾ cent a bushel higher. Lard was 20 to 25 cents per hundred pounds higher.

Buy Beans for Britain.

After the close it was announced that the government had bought about 160,000 bushels of soy beans, presumably for shipment to England. Some traders said that there was a strong probability of further export business in beans.

Recent price changes in the soy bean market have been erratic. The July delivery sold at $1.56½ on June 27, fell to $1.41⅞ by July 1 following a threat by Price Administrator Leon Henderson to place a ceiling on cottonseed oil, and at the high point yesterday it sold at $1.56.

Buying of wheat futures was stimulated by lack of hedging pressure, despite large receipts in the southwest, and by a weather bureau forecast for showers and thunderstorms over the winter wheat belt later this week. This may cause a further delay in harvesting and also additional damage to the quality of the new grain, experts said.

Mills Buy Wheat Futures.

Mills were moderate buyers of wheat futures at times, giving rise to reports of flour sales, but no quantities were mentioned.

An official Canadian report indicates that farmers in the three western provinces have seeded only 17 million acres of spring wheat for the 1941 crop, or a reduction of 37 per cent from the 27,750,000 acres seeded in 1940. The figure was well below trade expectations. Winnipeg wheat futures closed 1½ to 1⅝ cents higher, and prices there are well above the minimums of 70 cents for the October and 71⅝ cents for the December delivery.

Condition of all wheat in Canada on June 30, in percentage of average yields per acre, was shown by the bureau of statistics as 80 per cent, compared with 98 per cent May 31 and 96 per cent June 30, 1940.

New York, July 8 (AP).—General Motors corporation's car sales to consumers and dealers in June were the largest on record for that month, the company reported today.

Sales of cars and trucks to consumers totaled 235,817 units against 265,750 in May and 173,212 in June, 1940. The previous June high was 189,756 units in 1936.

June sales to dealers in the United States were 224,119 units against 217,120 in May and 151,661 in June, 1940. The previous June high was 186,246 in 1936.

Also an all-time high for the period was the movement of cars to consumers in the first half of the year. The company sold 1,383,122 units against 941,821 in the same period last year. Until this peak was set the high had been the 964,451 cars sold in the first half of 1936.

'L' BOND OWNERS INDORSE CITY'S TRACTION PLAN

Urge Quick Action Toward Merger.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

A committee representing holders of 46 million dollars of mortgage bonds of the Chicago Rapid Transit company [elevated lines] yesterday urged acceptance by the bondholders of the transit unification ordinance adopted by the city council June 19.

The group, which represents all but $407,000 of the elevated lines' mortgage bonds, suggested that Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe proceed at once to complete a reorganization plan merging the elevated and surface lines, so the merged company can accept the ordinance.

The report, which was filed with Judge Igoe, followed by one day reports from Chicago Surface Lines' securities committees on the traction ordinance.

Rejected by Surface Groups.

Committees representing $98,950,000 of surface lines' bonds reported they would not recommend acceptance of the ordinance, while another group representing $31,000,000 of surface lines' bonds urged "conditional acceptance"—provided a loan is first promised for transit modernization.

The surface lines' largest committee, headed by Albert W. Harris, the banker, said the surface system cannot merge with the money losing elevated lines—as required in the ordinance—unless revenues are increased so that funds can be borrowed to carry out a large scale modernization program set out in the city's plan.

The report filed yesterday by Sidney L. Castle, chairman of the elevated lines' securities committee, argued that the merger plan could be put thru and the ordinance accepted even if no loan is first promised.

Terms City Ordinance Just.

"The new company, upon consummation of the reorganization and acceptance of the new ordinance, will be able to negotiate on more favorable terms than may now exist for such loans as may be available for carrying out a modernization program," the report said.

It also declared that the city's ordinance is fair to the city, the car riders, the transit lines, and their securities holders, and that it provides a workable basis for setting up a unified transportation system.

A hearing on the proposed merger will be held Friday before Judge Igoe. Meanwhile, Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], chairman of the city council transportation committee, declared yesterday that the city will seek to have the traction ordinance submitted directly to a vote of the 75,000 transit lines' securities holders, over the heads of the committees. Quinn said the views of the surface lines' committees do not necessarily represent the attitude of the actual owners of the bonds.

Henderson Asks No Boost in Carpet and Rug Prices

Washington, D. C., July 8 (AP).—Leon Henderson, price administrator, has asked carpet and rug manufacturers not to increase prices on lines to be marked this fall. The request, aids said today, was contained in a letter to the manufacturers.

Nazis Buy French Holdings in Turkey with Seized Money

ISTANBUL, Turkey, July 8 (AP).—German bankers, pursuing the financial conquest of Europe in the wake and sometimes in advance of the Nazi armies, have begun buying French and Belgian holdings in Turkey. For money they apparently are using funds extracted from the occupied countries.

Present operations in Turkey, as described by a competent source, are only a small part of the campaign which began with the German occupation of Paris. Using both financial and political pressure, the Germans are ferreting out the vast network of French investments in Europe to supply their increasing demands for foreign exchange.

Needs French Credits.

Altho French and Belgian investments in Turkey are comparatively small, Germany needs their credits in Turkey to pay for her increased purchases here. A score of German bankers arrived in a group a few weeks ago.

Germany gets 400,000,000 francs daily from France under the armistice agreement to pay costs of the German occupation. But since the actual cost is reported to be much less than that, a surplus is left over with which to buy out French holdings in France and abroad. [The franc has a nominal value of about 2.3 cents.]

The Germans therefore can afford to make enticing offers for French foreign investments. For example, they are offering the French 35 to 37 francs per Turkish lira, altho the present rate of exchange is 33 francs for the lira.

"Make a Good Thing of It."

Even then the Germans make a good thing of it. It takes two German marks to buy a lira, but the Germans have arbitrarily declared two marks worth 40 francs. With two marks they get 40 francs, and use only 33 to 37 of the francs to buy the lira.

If enticing offers fail, pressure of the Vichy government may be brought to bear. For example, the informant said that when Germany bought control last winter of the Bor mines in Yugo-Slavia, richest copper mines in Europe, the principal holders were summoned to Vichy and told they must sell as part of the "collaboration" with Germany.

Air Interstate Fidelity Funds Battle Today

The controversy between various states, including Illinois and Wisconsin, and the federal District court at Charleston, W. Va., over the reorganization of the Fidelity Assurance association, 25 million dollar investment company, will be aired today in an informal conference at Charleston.

Federal Judge Ben Moore of Charleston will meet with securities and banking officials of several of the states which hold assets deposited by the association as security for annuity contracts sold in those states. Judge Moore on June 10 ordered the states to surrender the deposited securities to the Central Trust company of Charleston, the trustee, but this order has been resisted by state officials.

Jarecki to State Illinois Case.

John T. Jarecki, Illinois securities commissioner, left yesterday for Charleston to attend the conference. He indicated that Illinois will not yield in its contention that the 3¾ millions of securities held by the secretary of state should be retained for the protection of Fidelity contract holders in the state.

The Illinois deposit is the second largest of the funds established by Fidelity to meet the requirements of the various states in which it operated. West Virginia, the home state of the association, holds more than 13 million dollars of assets. Wisconsin has about 2½ million dollars worth.

Wisconsin will be represented at the conference by R. H. Lauritzen, assistant attorney general, acting on behalf of that state's banking commission. He was instrumental in filing an intervening petition in the reorganization proceedings to contest the court order to surrender deposited assets.

Called Bankrupt by State.

Fidelity Assurance, formerly Fidelity Investment association, sold instalment savings contracts in the east, south, and middle west. Last April it was placed in receivership on the application of the West Virginia state auditor, who said the association could not meet certain requirements of the federal investment company act of 1940. He indicated that efforts would be made to reorganize the association into an insurance company.

However, the state receivership was supplanted by federal court bankruptcy proceedings after the state appointed receivers had failed to gain possession of the deposited assets in other states.

STOCKHOLDERS VOTE WIDER U. S. RUBBER SCOPE

New York, July 8 [Special].—Stockholders of the United States Rubber company at a special meeting in Jersey City today voted to amend the certificate of organization granting the management additional powers in broadening the scope of the company's business.

No explanation was given as to proposed new operations, but it is understood negotiations with the government for operation of a small arms munition plant are nearing completion. It is believed the project involves a plant to be erected in the middle west by the government at an estimated cost of around $30,000,000 for operation by the company.

Prior to today's action the company's charter would not permit extension of activities into the armament field.

Imports Decline

Washington, D. C., July 8 (AP).—Gold imports in the week ended July 2 were $5,731,840.

The commerce department said the figure was about $3,600,000 under the preceding week. Principal shipments were $2,898,850 from Canada and $1,824,819 from the Philippine Islands.

POSTAL SAVINGS.

Is there any reason why the post-office department has discontinued the use of the postal savings certificate which pledged the faith of the government as security? I am told that the new certificates do not have this pledge, or at least it is not printed in the same place—A. T.

Answer: The statement, "The faith of the United States government is solemnly pledged to the payment of this account on demand," does not appear on new postal savings certificates.

Ramsey S. Black, third assistant postmaster general, informed Investors' Guide that the statement has been revised, the words "on demand," being dropped. The revised statement appears in the seal of the new issue of postal savings certificates.

"The omission of the two words has no significance in actual practice," Black said. "Under the banking act of 1933, postal savings deposits are designated as 'time deposits' and as such the funds represented thereby must remain on deposit the full three months from the date appearing on the certificate as the 'date when interest begins' before interest is due and payable.

"However, under the previous regulations, as well as those now in effect, the principal amount on deposit may be paid at any time the depositor may make demand."

ZURICH GENERAL.

Is Zurich General Accident and Liability Insurance company a foreign company? I have my automobile policy with this firm and want to be sure I am fully protected.—J. H. O.

Answer: The company is a Swiss concern, having been formed in 1872 in Zurich, Switzerland, and started business in this country in 1913.

The company is required by state insurance laws to keep in trust, for the benefit of United States policyholders and creditors, funds sufficient to cover liabilities and statutory deposit requirements. Funds of the United States branch may be withdrawn only with the permission of the New York insurance department.

At the end of 1940, the company had trusteed with the Bankers Trust company, New York, or deposited with state insurance departments, funds aggregating $31,064,157. This amounted to 88.5 per cent of the United States branch's assets and to 127 per cent of its outstanding liabilities.

The domestic branch maintains a high grade investment portfolio, consisting 58 per cent of bonds, 17 per cent of common stock, 9.6 per cent of preferred stock, 7.2 per cent in cash, and the rest in miscellaneous investments.

Warn Foreign Trade Men on Regulations

Chicago exporters and importers were advised yesterday that to avoid the severe penalties provided for violation of President Roosevelt's order "freezing" the assets of many continental European countries they would be wise to obtain approval in advance of transactions. The advice was given by representatives of foreign departments of Chicago banks at a round table discussion arranged by the Chicago Association of Credit Men in the Hotel Sherman.

Altho about 51 general licenses have been issued by the treasury department allowing transactions which in general are construed not to be of benefit to the European aggressor nations, a number have been rescinded or modified and only about 40 remain in effect, the credit men were told.

Apply for License.

The bankers' advice was: When in doubt as to the nationality of the person or ownership of the corporation involved, apply for a license thru the regional Federal Reserve bank. In addition, apply to the United States representative of the "government in exile" in the event the contemplated business involves one of the nations whose exiled government has been recognized by the state department.

Bankers reported that the treasury department, to which the reserve banks refer many of the questions of foreign traders, has thus far shown a cooperative attitude, and said that a reasonable inquiry into the nationality of a potential customer should be sufficient.

The restrictions, intended primarily to prevent the transfer of funds to benefit Germany or German corporations and individuals, apply to business men and organizations in South America and elsewhere in the event the organization is controled by continental European interests.

Use British "Black List."

The "British black list," containing the names of such corporations, has been advocated by the United States treasury as a guide to business men in doubt as to their customers, the meeting was told.

The penalty for violation of the President's "Executive Order, No. 8785," is a $10,000 fine or 10 years in jail.

Report Method to Ease Radio Metal Scarcity

A new development in the radio manufacturing industry's efforts to solve a critical problem of raw material supply was reported yesterday by Paul Galvin, vice president of the Radio Manufacturers association.

Galvin, president of Galvin Manufacturing corporation, Chicago radio maker, said the industry's suppliers have found a way to utilize scrap nickel and scrap aluminum in making the alloy magnets used in the speakers of portable and rural radio sets. Lack of this alloy, called alnico steel, is seriously hampering production of the speakers.

At the same time Galvin disclosed that the principal radio manufacturers, at meetings in Chicago and New York, have planned to slash 1942 radio production to 40 or 45 per cent of the estimated 1941 output.

Would Conserve Metals.

This would help the government conserve metals for armament use. The proposal will be made to the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply.

Galvin is chairman of the priorities committee for the industry and chairman of the industry's governmental relations committee.

Radio makers already have made vast reductions in their use of aluminum, the supply of which is the biggest single problem of the industry. Aluminum is used in other parts of radios, as well as in magnets.

Last year the industry used 4,000,000 pounds of aluminum. Earlier this year the manufacturers began a conservation drive which, by bringing about uses of steel, paper, and plastics instead of aluminum where possible, achieved such savings in aluminum that the industry expects to be using only 400,000 pounds a year by October, Galvin said.

OPM Approval Required.

Galvin said that if the program for using scrap aluminum and nickel is approved by the Office of Production Management, a long step toward solution of the magnet alloy problem will have been taken. Scrap cannot be used for the purpose without the OPM's permission. Two Chicago smelting companies which make alnico steel under license from General Electric company, owner of the patent, have received temporary verbal permission to use scrap, Galvin reported. He said meetings with federal officials, with a view to arranging wider use of scrap, will be held July 15 in Washington.

The magnets used in the permanent magnet speakers of portable and other battery sets weigh 3 to 7 ounces. There is about twice as much nickel as aluminum in the magnets. Other metals, including steel, also are used in the alloy, the formula for which was discovered by a Japanese.

The radio industry is not now getting aluminum under the priority allotment system. If some solution is not found by October, Galvin said, the radio makers "will be sunk."

Five Closed Banks to Pay 1 to 10 Pct. to Depositors

Payment of $150,886 to approximately 20,000 depositors of five closed state banks in Chicago and Cook county has been ordered, Arthur C. Lueder, state auditor, announced yesterday. Depositors of the Cottage Grove State bank will receive 10 per cent repayments; Equitable Trust company, 5 per cent; Prudential State Saving, 5 per cent; Adams State, 1 per cent, and State Bank of Franklin Park, 8.8 per cent.

People and Events

Dr. Donald B. Keyes of the University of Illinois has been named to direct organization of a chemicals and drug section for the civil supply allocation division of the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply. Keyes will serve for about two months.

C. A. Linder, secretary and treasurer of the Booth Fisheries corporation, Chicago, was elected a director of the company at the annual meeting of stockholders yesterday.

Frederick E. Hasler, chairman of the executive committee of the Continental Bank and Trust company, New York, for the last 10 years, has been elected chairman of the board.

CIO ASKS F. D. R. TO AID ITS FIGHT ON LABOR BILLS

Opposes Using Force to Prevent Tieups.

Washington, D. C., July 8 [Special].—Philip Murray, CIO president, discussed the May bill and other pending labor legislation with President Roosevelt today and, it was said, asked the chief executive to express opposition to legislative proposals which the CIO regards as anti-labor. The May bill authorizes the use of armed forces to break strikes in armament industries.

Sidney Hillman, OPM associate director and leader of a CIO union who was assailed yesterday by John L. Lewis of the CIO, also discussed the labor situation with Mr. Roosevelt today, and told reporters later that he had reported that it was "very highly satisfactory."

House Action Due Today.

The May bill is scheduled to come up for action in the house tomorrow. Both the AFL and CIO oppose the bill, which is a revised version of the Connally amendments to the selective service act already passed by the senate.

The provisions dealing with government seizure of struck plants and authorizing the use of troops "to afford protection to all persons engaged in the operation of such plant or industry who voluntarily desire to work" are appended to a measure deferring men over 21 years from military conscription.

STRIKE AT ENGINE PLANT

Muskegon, Mich., July 8 (AP).—The Muskegon Heights plant of the Sealed Power corporation, engaged in making engine parts for tanks, submarines, and trucks, was closed by a strike today.

Officials of the United Automobile Workers [AFL] said more than 900 employés, virtually the entire personnel of the shops, ceased work in a dispute over wages and a union shop contract which has been under consideration by the national defense mediation board.

Deadlocked on Union Shop.

Alton, Ill., July 8 (AP).—Representatives of the Western Cartridge company and the AFL Chemical Workers' union, seeking to avert a strike, agreed today on union recognition, but were deadlocked on the union demands for a union shop and minimum wage increases from 60 to 85 cents an hour.

Wage Boost Is Granted.

Wichita, Kas., July 8 (AP).—A blanket five cent an hour increase in wages paid by the Stearman division of the Boeing Airplane company was announced today by J. Earl Schaefer, general manager. The pay hike, effective July 10 will affect about 4,000 workers.

Marines Force Delivery.

Ambler, Pa., July 8 [Special].—A two squad detachment of United States marines moved into the strike-bound asbestos plant of the Keasbey & Mattison company here this evening to assure delivery of asbestos boards needed in the construction of the temporary navy building in Washington. Strikers made no move to prevent the entrance of the marines, who quickly loaded the boards into trucks and escorted them away.

Mediators Seek Settlements.

Washington, D. C., July 8 (AP).—A panel of the defense mediation board attempted today to effect a settlement of the dispute between a CIO union and the Federal Shipbuilding corporation, Kearny, N. J. The Industrial Union of Marine and Shipyard Workers of America had threatened a strike but postponed it at the request of the board.

Barracks Tieup Ended.

St. Louis, Mo., July 8 (AP).—The AFL Building Trades council voted today to end a strike at Jefferson barracks after receiving assurance from Washington that a committee would investigate encroachment of the WPA in the construction field.

COTTON FUTURES SOAR $1.70 A BALE TO HIGH LEVELS FOR 11 YEARS

Cotton futures soared to new 11 year high levels yesterday as a heavy demand from mill, trade, and speculative interests boosted values as much as $1.70 a bale. Late profit taking trimmed best prices.

The advance was given impetus by opposition to price control measures, a bullish government acreage report and mill covering against government contracts for cotton goods.

Only 23,519,000 acres have been planted for the 1941 cotton crop, the department of agriculture estimated, compared with 24,871,000 acres planted the preceding year. It predicted about 23,102,000 acres will remain for harvest, the smallest since 1895.

Cotton closed .15 to .21 cent higher in the cash markets, with New York, 15.92 cents; New Orleans, 14.96 cents; Houston, 14.79 cents; and Galveston at 14.74 cents a pound. Futures prices follow in cents per pound:

DAY by DAY on the FARM & GAIL COMPTON

Corn Is Tasseling.

July 8, 1941.

ONLY a few days past the Fourth of July and the corn at the Fox river farm isn't knee high. It is almost 6 feet high and beginning to tassel out.

feet tall, with many of the big stalks reaching more than 6 feet. Inspection of the plants shows that the tassels are well developed. They cannot be seen without looking closely, because the plants fold their long leaves around the young tassels to protect them from the sun.

Fields Clean of Weeds.

All the corn has been laid by and the fields are clean of weeds. The farm manager expects a bumper crop this year, since the growing weather has been ideal. Frequent rains during June provided plenty of moisture and have served to keep the young grasshoppers and chinch bugs quiet. As a result the corn is almost free of insects and should produce large, healthy ears.

Operations at the farm are running ahead of schedule because the men have been able to get into the fields at the proper times to get the work done. In two days 55 tons of alfalfa were baled and stored in the barn. In addition, 40 acres of clover and timothy have been cut, cured, and piled in the barn as loose hay.

The winter wheat has been cut and is in the shock. The manager reports signs of a slight chinch bug infestation in the wheat, but said it was not serious enough to affect the yield. The oat harvest has started, and the big combine is at work cutting and tying the bundles of pale yellow grain.

Oat Harvest Difficult.

The oat harvest is proving a bit difficult, as almost one-third of the crop is flat on the ground. Windstorms last week knocked the grain down, and the heads were too heavy for the slender stalks to raise up again. The cornfields also were struck rather severely, but the vigor of their hybrid breeding enabled the stalks to recover and right themselves.

The farm has 43 head of new feeder cattle that the manager claims are the best the farm has had in 10 years. They are Herefords, purchased at Kansas City for 11 cents a pound.

The cattle averaged a little over 800 pounds and have been placed on full feed. They are being fed in the field instead of in the feed lot so they can take advantage of the lush pasture. They are handsome animals, and all except three are pure breds and could be registered.

SAN DIEGO GAS SHARES SOLD TO BANKING GROUP

Stock Will Be Offered to Public Today.

An underwriting group headed by Blyth & Co., Inc., yesterday was high bidder on 590,527 shares of common stock of the San Diego Gas and Electric company owned by the Standard Gas and Electric company. Standard Gas sold the stock as a part of its program of disposing of holdings to meet the provisions of the public utility act of 1935.

The Blyth & Co. group, which included a number of Pacific coast investment houses as well as eastern firms, paid $13.427 a share for the San Diego Gas stock, netting Standard Gas approximately $7,925,000 for the shares.

One Group Bids $12.52.

A banking group headed by Kidder, Peabody & Co. and Eastman, Dillon & Co. bid $12.52 for the shares. The sale was said to have been the first test of competitive bidding [required by SEC ruling] for common stock of public utility companies and sale by Standard Gas indicated success for this venture.

The shares sold by Standard Gas represented all the common stock it held in San Diego Gas, constituting approximately 59 per cent of the 1,003,250 shares [$10 par] outstanding.

Offer Water Company Shares.

An underwriting group headed by Drexel & Co. is offering 225,000 shares of Indianapolis Water company class A common stock [$10.50 par value] at $13.75 a share. The shares do not represent new financing, having been acquired from private interests who hitherto held 97.49 per cent of the company's voting common stock. The same interests will retain 52.49 per cent.
